Nazi Defense System In Italy Totters

United Nations Are Closing In For Kill Against Axis Powers

Interpretation By

Kirke L. Simpson

(Wide World War Analyst)

Possibilities of conclusive United Nations victories which could lop months, even years, off the duration of the struggle, are in the making in Europe and Asia.

Even German and Japanese realists no longer can doubt that the Nazi-Nipponese remnant of the triple Axis, already shorn of its Fascist prop in Italy, is crumbling fast. It is wearing away through war attrition everywhere with hard, possibly finishing, blows in close prospect on all fronts as the now close-knit United Nations fellowship closes in for the kill.

Germany's plight is revealed in Russian recapitulation of what happened in the Red army's 11-month march from the Volga to the Dnieper and beyond, and now to the capture of Kiev.

Russian territorial gains are indisputable. They tend strongly to confirm Russian estimates of German casualties and support Moscow claims of vast war booty taken from Nazi armies which are still retreating under trip-hammer attacks and in some sectors giving signs of demoralization.

Across the Pacific the story is the same. The southeastern segment of Japan's insular bulwarks for her boasted prosperity zone is being crushed. The Rabaul keystone already is useless and obviously about to fall. And the toll of air and sea losses at an ever increasing adverse ratio for the Tokyo war lords goes on rising steadily.

Superior Allied sea power now is threatening Japan on two Pacific fronts, daring the Nipponese main fleet to action. It is mobilizing by Japanese admission on a third front, the crucial Bay of Bengal, to menace every approach to the China is core of Nipponese war deployment.

Anglo-American air power today also is dominant. Short of major fleet action there is small hope for Tokyo that the Rabaul bastion can be retained or that tens of thousands of Japanese troops garrisoning south Pacific islands be saved from annihilation.

To cap the evil omens of the week for Japan, President Roosevelt has announced completion in Chungking of a new Anglo-American-Chinese operational pact covering the continent of

Banker Says Nation May Remain Financially Healthy

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Malcolm Bryan, first vice-president of the Federal Reserve bank of Atlanta, predicted here today the national debt would reach a total of $250,000,000,000 s a result of wartime expenditures ut asserted that the nation may reain healthy financially "from a busness view" of national assets and abilities.

Speaking at the closing session of conference on post-war problems, ttended by representatives of 10 outhern states, Bryan asserted he oes not expect an economic depression during the post-war period, at east not during the years immediatey following the end of the war beause "there will be a goods shortage nd not a goods surplus economy."

Because of their savings during the ar, he said, people will have more oney than at any time in history, nd will want to buy the things of hich they now are being deprived ecause of war conditions. He exressed the opinion, however, that ere would not be a rush of individal war bond holders to cash their nvestments immediately after the war nds.

There will be no "sudden, dramatic hanges when the shooting is over," ryan said. "Our surveys show that mall investors in government bonds onsider these holdings as house-buyg, unemployment, or sickness emerncy reserves, and not as silk shirt nds.

RIGHT FLANK OF GERMANS PERILED

American Fifth Army Captures Strategically Valuable Venafro

BRITISH 8TH ARMY STABS FIVE MILES UP ADRIATIC

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The germans' defense system on the eastern end of their line across southern Italy tottered today under the shock of a five-mile advance by the British Eighth army and westward the American Fifth army threatened the whole German right flank by its capture of strategically valuable Venafro.

The Eighth army stabbed five miles up the Adriatic yesterday to take Vasto, key of the German defenses facing the Trigno river, allied headquarters announced.

At the same time the Fifth army advanced into the mountains behind Venafro, where the Germans were seeking to protect their right flank by pinning a new line on the towering Aurunci mountains. In yesterday's advances the Allies took some 15 towns and villages.

Six and a half miles southwest of Venafro the Americans yesterday were within one mile of Mignano on the Via Casilina—main island road to Rome.

STATE OFFICIAL IS CRITICIZED

Dr. Gray States Hospital To Suffer By Stanley's Action

Dr. C. P. Gray, superintendent of the E. A. Conway Memorial hospital, has taken issue with Eugent Stanley, attorney general, who is said to oppose the local hospital's receiving operating funds already allocated by the board of liquidation unless school teachers get a $2,100,000 salary raise.

The text of the wire sent by Dr. Gray to the attorney general is as follows:

"The E. A. Conway Memorial hospital was opened to receive patients before it was fully equipped and the insufficient amount appropriated by the legislature had to be used to run the hospital and to purchase badly-needed equipment which should have been previously installed. With so much industrial work being done in Monroe and vicinity, hospital attendants have been hard to obtain and then only at large salaries. Should there be any withholding of funds granted by the board of liquidation, I forsee a serious emergency and grave public necessity as mentioned in Act 77 of 1908. This hospital has no ambulance other than two dilapidated bread trucks used as ambulances but we have an ambulance ordered and granted by the war production board which order might have to be cancelled should there be any withholding of funds."

Dr. Gray stated that 38 state institutions will be affected if Mr. Stanley persists in his present attitude. These include such state institutions as hospitals, state colleges, the Louisiana Training institute and other institutions.

Dr. Gray further asserted that there are three acts of the legislature which have never been attacked in court, under which money can be made available.

The poor and needy will be the ones to bear the brunt of suffering if there is withholding of state funds, Dr. Gray asserted.

JOHNSON DECLARES NEW DEAL THROUGH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A Democratic senator, Edwin Johnson of Colorado, declared today "the New Deal is through" and urged his party to draft General George C. Marshall for president.

"Even a child knows that a political revolution comparable to the Harding landslide is sweeping this nation," Johnson said in a statement after digesting the returns from Tuesday's off-year elections.

Unless drastic steps are taken by the Democrats, Johnson declared, they can look for a sweeping continuation of the Republican gains reflected by election of governors in Kentucky and New Jersey, a lieutenant governor in New York, and by victories in several local contests.

He termed the New Deal a "dead corpse."

Johnson, who has frequently differed with the Roosevelt administration in his seven-year tenure as senator, thus brought into the open the Marshall-for-president talk which has been buzzing in Capitol Hill cloakrooms for several weeks.

TWO JAP CRUISERS SUNK AND TEN OTHER VESSELS DAMAGED

Heavy Blows Struck at Reinforcements In Solomons Showdown

By William F. Boni

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Sunday, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Two Japanese cruisers have been sunk, six cruisers, two destroyers and two large cargo vessels damaged in the first stages of the Allied air smash at reinforcements rushed from Truk for the Solomons showdown.

Headquarters announced today the blowing up of a heavy cruiser during an 82-ton blasting by nearly 200 heavy bombers, dive-bombers, torpedo bombers and fighters Friday which left Rabaul's big harbor a mass of flame and smoke.

An enemy light cruiser was sent to the bottom of the Bismarck sea Thursday night 22 miles southwest of Kavieng, New Ireland, by three bomb hits scored by Liberators.

Four heavy cruisers, two light cruisers and two destroyers were badly battered at Rabaul where the air forces of both MacArthur and Admiral Halsey teamed up to hit reinforcements for the 8 warships sunk and six damaged there since October 12. Army and navy fighters escorting the raiders shot 26 Japanese planes out of the smoking skies and probably bagged an additional 24.

Avenger torpedo bombers and Dauntless divebombers, making their debut at Rabaul where Liberators and Mitchells previously had dominated that fortress, opened the assault before noon.

Torpedoes, always deadly weapons for warships, smashed into five heavy cruisers and a light cruiser. Another light cruiser was hit by bombs.

Seventy enemy fighters rose to combat these bombers and the covering fighters were inferior in numbers. But the navy pilots shot down 24 Zeros for certain and possibly 22 others.

It was such a staggering blow that when Liberators appeared after noon with P-38s to blow up warehouses and supplies piled high on the wharves

MORGAN TICKET MEN SPEAK HERE

Earl Long Delivers Principal Address, Noe Also Heard

Members of the Morgan ticket who are seeking election to various state offices in the January primary spoke at a political rally in the Crosley school auditorium last night before a crowd that was reduced by a heavy rain which fell shortly before the meeting opened. Lewis L. Morgan, candidate for governer and head of the ticket, was prevented from appearing, it was announced, because of a "minor accident at his home Thursday night." Miss Lucille May Grace, candidate for registrar of state lands, also was not present, it being explained that she had a severe cold, but other candidates on the ticket made short addresses.

Former Governor Earl K. Long, who recently withdrew from the governor's race and became a candidate for lieutenant governor on the Morgan ticket, was the principal speaker.

Both Mr. Long and James A. Noe, who acted as co-chairman with Mayor D. C. Golson of West Monroe, explained why they withdrew from the governor's race. Mr. Long said he agreed to run for lieutenant governor in the interest of "harmony and unity."

"I joined the ticket that a number of my friends thought capable of winning," he said. "I would run for dog catcher on any ticket that would end the regime of Sam Jones and his crowd."

Mr. Noe quoted from an article in a national magazine in which Governor Jones expressed opposition to policies of the Democratic party, and said he (Noe) thought he could best serve the party by remaining in his post as Democratic national committeeman to "hold the Democratic party in Louisiana together."

Mr. Noe pledged his wholehearted support to the Morgan ticket, and specifically mentioned Mr. Long, among others, whom he opposed in the gubernatorial race four years ago.

Mr. Long said every member of the Morgan ticket "is a pure-d Huey Long man," and said it was the desire of the candidate to restore liberal

LOCAL WOMAN TO GET AIR MEDAL

Mrs. J. L. Jones To Receive Award For Heroism Of Son

The heroism of a Monroe man who is now a prisoner of war in Germany, First Lieutenant William T. Jones, will be recognized with the full panoply of military splendor Friday afternoon at Selman field, when Colonel John W. Egan, commanding officer of the post, presents the air medal to Mrs. J. L. Jones, of 3014 Dick Taylor street, mother of the lieutenant.

Lieutenant Jones, a bombardier in a B-17 of the Eighth air force, was shot down over north Germany last May 19. He was injured slightly, but has since recovered, according to letters received here by Mrs. Jones.

Friday's ceremony, the first of its kind ever to take place at Selman field, will be conducted against a background of massed squadrons of precision-drilled aviation cadets of the pre-flight school (bombardier-navigator) in a wing parade and review, to the cadences of the Selman field band.

It is expected many residents of Monroe will crowd the spectators' area of the parade ground, since the general public is invited to witness the honoring of an airman who is widely known here. Persons wishing to attend need only call the Selman field public relations office, telephone 6400, extension 420, before Friday noon, to make arrangements for admission to the post.

Award of the medal is made for "exceptionally meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight."

The letter containing the citation was sent to Mrs. Jones by Major General J. A. Ulio, the adjutant general, and was dated October 14, 1943. This communication was the third which

NAZI DISASTER SEEN BY STALIN

Says Definite Allied Plans For Germany's Defeat Shaped

RUSSIAN CHIEF FIRST OF BIG 3 TO DISCUSS MEET

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Premier Joseph Stalin assured rejoicing Russians tonight that a "real second front" is near and told them the recent Moscow conference had shaped definite Allied plans for the final defeat of a Germany which he said already "stands at the edge of catastrophe."

Addressing a special meeting of the Moscow Soviet celebrating the 26th anniversary of the October revolution, Stalin said that Allied efforts so far, while helpful, do not yet constitute a real second front, and then assured the Communist leaders that "a real second front is not far behind the hills," using a Russian idiom for "not far off."

Earlier in a special order of the day Stalin had announced the fall of Kiev, and tonight Moscow's victory guns roared out their biggest salutes—24 salvoes from 324 guns—in celebration of the recapture of Russia's third largest city. The booming of the guns could be heard clearly in London over the Moscow radio.

In apparent reassurance to those fearing a Communist hegemony postwar program, the Soviet leader declared "the people of France, Yugoslavia and the occupied countries must again become free and independent."

"This is our first aim, that the peoples of Europe must have freedom to choose their own governments," he continued. "We must also see that there is not in the future any chance for aggression by Germany."

The Moscow conference documents pledged specifically only the independence of Austria.

Stalin, the first of the "big three" national leaders to speak publicly of the Moscow conference since its conclusion, confirmed the widespread feeling that the joint meeting of the foreign secretaries of the United States, Britain and Russia brought full agreement on a military program for the early defeat of Germany as well as opening new vistas of American-British-Russian cooperation in the post-war world.

The marshal, making one of his rare public appearances, said the "collaboration of the Allies has become stronger and better" through the past year, climaxed by the Moscow sessions.

In a confident 45-minute speech during which he reviewed the crises brought to the Soviet Union during three years of war and the Russian successes in overcoming them, Stalin said the past 12 months "brought the turning point of the war."

HELD FOR POSING AS U. S. OFFICER

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—R. A. Guerin, special agent in charge of the New Orleans office of the federal bureau of investigation, today announced the arrest at Jennings, La., of Thomas Moyer Hill, 36, of New Iberia, La. Guerin said a federal complaint was filed yesterday against Hill before the United States commissioner, Lake Charles, charging him with impersonating a federal officer, and claiming to be a representative of an army paper.

Guerin said Hill is an authorized advertising solicitor for the "Southern Military Review," a private paper published at Little Rock, Ark., and Alexandria, La., and printed in Monroe, La., and that a federal process is also outstanding for Hill in Mobile, Ala., charging him with impersonating a federal officer.

Caldwell And Ellis

The News-Star—World offers its enthusiastic and wholehearted support to Mayor Sam S. Caldwell of Shreveport for governor of Louisiana and to Frank B. Ellis of Covington, president pro tem of the state senate, for lieutenant-governor.

Election of Sam Caldwell would place in the governor's chair a man proven in public trust and of demonstrated ability and leadership as an administrator of public affairs. He has been elected mayor of Shreveport, Louisiana's second largest city, for three successive terms, an honor never before accorded a citizen of that city and self-evident of the esteem with which he is held by all classes of people.

Each of his elections was marked by vigorous campaigning but each of his administrations has been marked by complete unity and harmony in the city commission council, with political factionalism always submerged by civic progress. There has never been a law suit within his city administration, never a serious disagreement between the commission council members.

The rare qualities of leadership and tested administrative ability which have given Sam Caldwell the triple endorsement of his fellow citizens as mayor would be carried into the state government in a manner to presage an administration which all could follow and none need fear.

All sections of the state, all political factions, all people of Louisiana could unite behind his administration with full confidence that it would always be guided along lines of genuine welfare for them and for their state. Mayor Caldwell has proven before the keen scrutiny of the jury of public opinion in his own home city that he is capable in every way of bringing just such unity and public confidence. Every step in his life as a public official and as a private citizen has been one of integrity, honesty and ability.

Born in Caddo parish, educated in Caddo public schools and at Louisiana Tech, he has grown up with Louisiana's progress and welfare as an ideal constantly before him. He is a past president of Louisiana Tech Alumni society and a founder and first president of the Lousiana Mayors conference. These posts testify to his popularity among his friends in both public and private life.

Senator Ellis, from the southern part of Louisiana, is an ideal running mate for Mayor Caldwell. His name is known throughout Louisiana through his forbears and through his own achievements—from his days on the Louisiana State university campus and football fields, through success as an attorney, and on to unanimous election as president pro tem of the state senate. In that post he served with distinction, particularly in the difficult days of the Jones administration when more than 2,000 bills passed across his desk in public life. His ability is recognized in private life. He has the respect and admiration of all who really know him.

Mayor Caldwell and Senator Ellis both are waging vigorous and aggressive campaigns with final and complete victory as their only objective. Before the day for voting comes, they will have been seen or heard throughout the state. We believe that their campaign will develop into a constantly increasing swell of ever-growing public approval and popularity in the well-known demand for a business administration. Their election will place a combination of youthful vigor and mature governmental experience in each of the two top administrative posts of Louisiana's government and that would presage well for the entire state.

Sam Caldwell and Frank Ellis have the full confidence—and the votes—of all who seek clean, capable, harmonious government for this state.

Therefore, the News-Star—World and its guiding executives have no hesitancy in approving and voting for the candidacies of Mayor Sam S. Caldwell for governor and of Senator Frank B. Ellis, president pro tem of the state senate, for lieutenant-governor.

ALLIES WILL SMASH 90 NAZI WAR TOWNS

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Air Marshal Sir Arthur T. Harris promised the British people tonight that Allied air power will shatter 90 Nazi war centers and smash the U-boat campaign.

The commander in chief of the bomber command declared in a Northamptonshire speech that "we propose entirely to emasculate every center of enemy production, 40 of which are centers vital to his war effort, and 50 that can be termed considerably important.

"We are well on the way toward their destruction."

"We intend to reduce what remains of the German submarine offensive to nought," he said. "That might be evident before spring, and certainly before the leaves fall next year.

"Every ton of bombs dropped on German industries will save the lives of 10 United Nations' soldiers in the near future when the invasion comes."

The storm then moved to Baer Town, a negro community near McComb, and wrecked several houses.

REDS PROMISED REAL 2ND FRONT

Invasion Of Crimea From East Is Announced By Soviets

RUSSIAN ARMY LESS THAN 130 MILES FROM POLAND

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Red army climaxed its four months' offensive today by liberating Kiev, mother of Russian cities, on the eve of the 26th anniversary of the Soviet revolution and Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin told a gaily celebrating Moscow that Germany now "stands at the edge of catastrophe" and that "a real second front" is near.

The Russians also announced they had invaded the Crimea from the east and had firmly established bridgeheads on the Kerch peninsula both north and south of the town of Kerch, the one to the north being six miles wide and four miles deep. Half a dozen towns and strongly-fortified German strongpoints were captured in the landing operations which smashed back constant German counterattacks.

The Russians smashed on 19 miles south of ruined Kiev to Vasilkov, heading toward a junction with the bridgehead already extended across the river from Pereyaslav, the Moscow daily communique, recorded by the Soviet monitor, said.

The fall of Kiev was announced by Stalin in a special order of the day in which he indicated this master stroke opened the way for freeing all the rich, western Ukraine.

More than 60 towns west and south of Kiev were taken as the Red army, continuing its drive, forged west and south less than 130 miles from the old

PRISONER FIGHTS DEPUTY SHERIFFS

Grabs Tallulah Officer's Gun And Fires Six Shots

TALLULAH, La., Nov. 6.—(Special)—S. B. Bettis, deputy sheriff of Madison parish, today told the story here of how a convicted robber on his way to state prison yesterday tried to escape, got possession of the deputy's gun, fired at him six times and in turn was stopped by a "knockout" bullet fired by State Trooper R. R. Holt.

Deputy Bettis and Trooper Holt were on their way from Tallulah to Angola through Mississippi when one of three prisoners, Harvey Short, ex-convict of Alabama sentenced to nine years in Louisiana state penitentiary for robbery, attempted a break with a pocket knife as his only weapon despite the fact that he was handcuffed and shackled.

Short grabbed Bettis' pistol as they were nearing the Homochitto river below Natchez. He jumped from the car and quickly fired six shots at Bettis before Trooper Holt shot one time, hitting Short in the head.

The convict fell unconscious into a roadside ditch, but despite the fact that he lost quite a bit of blood, the injury proved only a scalp wound, it was reported. When Short regained consciousness the officers drove on with him and the other two prisoners, a second white man and a negro, to Angola where they were surrendered to prison authorities.

Shortly after the officers had left Tallulah with the prisoners, all convicted on robbery charges, officers

BARUCH IS GIVEN ADJUSTMENT TASK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The giant task of finding a uniform policy in readjusting industry to war requirements as dictated by battlefront experience and also to peacetime conversion was turned over today to a veteran government troubleshooter—73-year-old Bernard M. Baruch.

War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes announced the appointment of Baruch, his chief consultant, to head a new unit in his agency to "deal with war and post-war adjustment problems and to develop unified programs and policies to be pursued by the various agencies of government concerned."

The unit will undertake first the difficult job of revising billions of dollars worth of war contracts, a problem harassing legislative and administrative groups.

But President Roosevelt in ordering creation of the unit last month said it would also consider contract termination problems and "reconversion and disposition of plants and property no longer required for war."

Baruch has also called a meeting of the new unit for next Tuesday when representatives of government procurement agencies will submit proposals for a uniform contract revision and termination policy.

"Mr. Baruch's acceptance of this vitally important post," Byrnes said, "should assure the country that the adjustment problems will be handled with both statesmanlike efficiency and broad vision."

Asia and linked with the Mountbatten offensive in preparation in Burma and the Bay of Bengal. It completes the United Nation iron ring about Japan except for the north sector, dormant under Russo-Japanese non-aggression pledges.

The announcement came at the moment Washington authorities disclosed that the new American super bombers, the B-29 evolution of the Flying Fortresses of today, are close to their final acid test—combat action.

It seems obvious that these huge craft which reduce other big bombers to the rank of "light heavies," are destined primarily for operations in the Pacific-Asiatic war zones where the distances are the greatest. They give new meaning to the recent American naval operations in the central Pacific zone and to the repossessed Aleutian take-offs for attack on Japan itself.

In Italy, meanwhile, the first Nazi defense line below Rome was cracked in the center by Anglo-American forces. Rome is a scant 70 miles distant this week-end from the center spearheads of the Anglo-American Fifth and Eighth armies.

In effect, the Allied break-through which has smashed the Massico-Vasto front is the beginning of a Nazi flight from Rome itself.

remaining here missed a knife and telephoned ahead to the guard on the Vicksburg bridge, requesting him to inform the officers that one of their prisoners was believed to be in possession of a knife.

The officers were said to have searched the prisoners, all three of whom were seated on the back seat, but failed to find any knife. They then continued their trip.

As they neared the Homochitto river Trooper Holt glanced back at the prisoners just in time to catch Short in the act of striking downward at him with a knife. Trooper Holt dodged aside and Deputy Bettis immediately stopped the car.

The sudden stopping of the machine threw Short forward causing him to drop the knife, and almost in the same instant, it was reported, the negro prisoner opened one of the doors. Deputy Bettis grabbed to shut the door and at the same time Short snatched the deputy's gun from its scabbard. Short quickly tumbled out of the car and began shooting toward Bettis, missing him six times before Trooper Holt's shot dropped him.

The knife which the officers had failed to find in their search of the prisoners at the Vicksburg bridge had been concealed by Short in his can of tobacco.

"Six henchmen of Sam Jones are on Jimmie Davis' ticket," Long said.

The former governor said he had been investigated by "friend and foe" alike and that his honesty had been proven in every instance.

Telegrams were read from Mr. Morgan and Miss Grace expressing regret at their inability to attend the rally and stating the policies which they advocate in the coming campaign.

A speaker introduced as Jimmy Burns of St. Tammany parish, a "life-long friend of Lewis Morgan," told of the background of the gubernatorial candidate and of the high esteem in which he is held in his home parish. He said the opposition is telling voters that "Morgan is too old to serve as governor" but added that the candidate is but 67 years old, whereas other statesmen are much older. Both he and Mr. Noe cited a list of men in public life who are older than Mr. Morgan. Mr. Burns said the opposition has announced Mr. Morgan's age as being from 70 to 85 years.

Other members of the Morgan ticket who spoke were Harry D. Wilson, candidate for reelection as commissioner of agriculture; Wade O. Martin, Jr., candidate for secretary of state; John Daigle, for state treasurer; E. J. Bourg, for state auditor; L. E. Frazar, for state superintendent of education, and Joe Cawthorn, candidate for attorney general.

TWO JAP

only 20 enemy fighters could be mounted against them. Two were shot down for certain and two others probably. The attacking forces lost nine planes.

It was the ninth strike against Rabaul since General MacArthur told his press conference October 11 that he intended to knock out that Japanese base, key to enemy defenses in both the south and southwest Pacific.

In those attacks, 732 enemy aircraft have been listed as destroyed, probably destroyed or damaged in the air and on the ground, with 259 definitely destroyed and the ground and 263 shot out of the air.

A heavy cruiser, seven destroyers, a gunboat, 12 merchant ships, 43 seagoing small vessels, four coastal ships and 70 harbor craft have been sunk. Seven heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, two destroyers, a submarine, a submarine tender, a destroyer tender, 10 merchant ships and two tankers have been damaged.

In the Bismarck sea, early Saturday morning, a Catalina from Admiral Halsey's forces bombed a destroyer in a convoy in the Kavieng area. Headquarters also reported that last Wednesday night, Liberators scored bomb hits which disabled a 10,500-ton tanker and set fire to a cargo ship of more than 10,000 tons north of Mussau island.

Continuing to crater into uselessness Japan's airfields on invaded Bougainville faster than the enemy can restore them, Allied planes have dropped 140 tons on bases at both ends of the island—near Buin on the south, at Buka on the northern tip.

"Our air forces struck at the gathering enemy reinforcement at Rabaul," headquarters said.

"Opening the action, our naval planes from the right wing (Halsey's) consisting of dive bombers, torpedo bombers and fighters attacked enemy warships in the harbor.

"Our army planes from the center, consisting of heavy bombers and fighter escort, later attacked the township and waterfront instin the first attack, five heavy cruisers and a light cruiser and two destroyers were hit by torpedoes and another light cruiser was hit by bombs.

"One of the heavy cruisers was observed to blow up. The extent of damage on the others could not be accurately observed.

"In the second attack, 82 tons of explosives were concentrated on the warehouse and waterfront areas, causing explosions and huge fires near the oil and coal wharves.

"The entire area was blanketed in smoke with flames rising several hundred feet in the air from burning fuel dumps, buildings and supplies piled high near the wharves. A merchant vessel tied to Copra wharf was hit and set on fire.

"Over 70 enemy fighters intercepted our naval air units. Twenty-four were shot down with 22 more probable. Only 20 enemy planes could be mounted to stop our army air units. Two of these were shot down and two more probably destroyed.

"Eight of our naval air craft did not return to base and one army fighter is missing. A number of our planes were damaged."

The cruiser sunk in the Bismarck sea was in a convoy attacked near Kavieng, New Ireland, at night. Three direct bomb hits sank the warship. A destroyer also was bombed. One Allied plane was lost in the attack.

North of Nassau island, which is at the northwestern tip of New Ireland, big four-engined bombers in attacking another convoy disabled a 10,500-ton tanker and left a big cargo ship aflame and listing.

SINATRA SAYS HE WON'T BE MISSED

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Frank Sinatra, the man with the voice, says he doesn't think America's womenfolk will miss him much if he goes off to war.

"I don't think anyone will miss me much except my family," the swoon-crooner said in an interview.

He merely laughed when someone suggested the thousands of girls who have scrambled for front seats at his public appearances might be a little upset if the army took him.

The crooner's draft board in Jersey City, N. J., said he might be called in mid-December.

Sinatra, who is 26 and lives with his wife and three-year-old daughter Nancy in Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., said another baby was expected about Christmas-time and "I hope it is a boy."

W. B. Mask, third, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Mask, Jr., above, a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school, entered Northeast Junior college last June 13 and is taking a pre-med course. He also is devoting considerable time to the study of piano in which he is considered talented. His teacher, Mrs. Florence Zeagler Allbritton, has arranged for him to broadcast as he has done with proficiency a number of times recently.

LOCAL WOMAN

Mrs. Jones had received from the adjutant general's office.

First came a telegram, dated May 26 —seven days after Lieutenant Jones became a prisoner—announcing that the bombardier was "missing in action." About six weeks later Mrs. Jones was informed by another telegram that her son was a prisoner of war of the Germans.

The text of the letter of citation is in part as follows:

"My Dear Mrs. Jones:

"I have the honor to inform you that by direction of the president the air medal has been awarded to your son, First Lieutenant (then second lieutenant) W. T. Jones, air corps, for exceptionally meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight.

"Since your son has been reported to the war department as a prisoner of war of the German government, the decoration will be presented to you in his absence.

"May I again express my sympathy during this period, and join you in the hope for your son's safe return as quickly as possible.

"Sincerely yours,

"J. A. Ulio,
"Major General, U. S. A.
"The Adjutant General."

Mrs. B. C. Ferguson, sister of the officer to be honored, of the Dick Taylor street address, was asked how the family felt about her brother's lot.

"We are taking it the best way we can," she replied with a philosophy befitting a warrior's family. "I know he is disappointed because he was so anxious to get into the fray. He wrote from England that he was so happy to be really doing something after all the training he had had."

Lieutenant Jones entered the air forces as a cadet in January, 1942. On August 13, 1942, he was graduated from the army air forces bombardier school at Midland, Tex., with a second lieutenant's commission and the wings of his specialty. He left for England in February of this year.

The lieutenant attended Georgia Tucker school, and was graduated in 1938 from Neville High school. After a semester at Northeast Junior college, he went to work in the electrical department of the Monroe Hardware company, where he was employed when he volunteered for aviation cadet training.

Members of his family living in Monroe besides his mother and sister are his father, J. L. Jones, who is employed by the H. Mickel Dry Goods company, and another sister, Mrs. O. D. Hart, of 1022 North Fifth street. A brother, J. L. Jones, Jr., is at Camp Beauregard.

Polish border. Great German losses in men and material littered the city and the roads, but the Russians were still too busy to count them.

Moscow, bedecked with banners and slogans for its chief holiday of the year, heard the biggest victory gun salute of the war—24 salvoes from 324 guns. These were clearly heard in London over the Moscow radio.

Stalin's order of the day was addressed to General Nicholas Vatutin architect of the Germans' Stalingra disaster, whose troops bore down from the north in a final blow to liberate the "mother of Russian cities."

Stalin asserted that Russian troop by "a gallant out-flanking maneuve today at daybreak captured by storm the capital of the Soviet Ukraine, the town of Kiev, vital industrial cente and most important strategic center German resistance on the right flan of the Dnieper river."

He termed Kiev of "great impo tance in driving the Germans from th western Ukraine."

Twenty-four salvoes from 324 gun saluted the 60 Soviet ground and a units which freed the former capit of old Russia and third largest city the Soviet Union on the eve of th October revolution celebration.

The victory left the Nazis with no major natural defense barrier between Kiev and the old Polish border, and enhanced the threat to cut in two the German armies in south Russia.

The Russians surely will try to break across the Ukraine to beat the Germans to the Dniester river at the Rumanian border and throw a still wider hook on the sickle around the Nazis trying to escape from the Dnieper bend.

J. M. BREARD IN RACE FOR JUROR

Veteran Member Of Police Jury Seeks Reelection From Ward 10

CANDIDATE

JOHN M. BREARD

John M. Breard, veteran member of the Ouachita parish police jury from Ward 10, yesterday announced his candidacy for re-election in the Democratic primary of January 18.

Mr. Breard has been a member of the police jury for a number of years and is the ranking juror in point of service in the parish.

He was largely responsible for the Louisville avenue extension and the location of the Ouachita river bridge at Louisville avenue, which is considered the most logical site in the Twin Cities.

Mr. Breard was one of the prime movers in initiating the good roads movement in 1915 which resulted in the citizens of Ouachita parish voting a bond issue of $1,600,000, thereby making it possible for the parish to have many miles of concrete, blacktop and gravel roads. He was president of the jury when this was accomplished.

Through his initiative, the present courthouse was conceived and built by the people of the parish through a bond issue.

Mr. Breard is interested in agriculture, and he has always supported constructive movements, such as drainage, which at this time the parish of Ouachita has done a most magnificent piece of work in practically every war where drainage is so essential.

Mr. Breard is vice-president of the Central Savings Bank and Trust company, with which he has been connected for the past 32 years, and is also a member of the executive council of the Louisiana Bankers association. He was president of the police jury for many years and also served as president of the Louisiana Police Jurors' association.

CHURCH YEAR IS COMING TO END

Final Services Of Conference Period Closes Today

This will be the final Sunday for the Louisiana Methodist conference year, and the pastors in the Twin Cities will fill their pulpits for the last time this church year.

The pastors concerned locally are Dr. A. M. Serex, First Methodist church, Monroe; Rev. W. C. Mason, Gordon Avenue church, Monroe; Rev. Ira Yeager, Stone Avenue Methodist church; and Dr. C. Karlos Smith, First Methodist church, West Monroe.

The past year has been a prosperous one for all these churches, financially and spiritually. The various churches will send delegations to the annual conference in Lafayette this week with reports that are highly encouraging.

As in the case each year, all congregations are speculating as to which pastors will be returned to their charges for another year. It is believed that nearly all, perhaps all, pastors in the Twin Cities will be returned for another year.

Today being the last one of the church year, all Methodist pastors urged that their members and congregations make special effort to be present.

In West Monroe, Dr. C. Karlos Smith will be back in his pulpit after a 10-day absence in Chicago caused by the death of his son-in-law.

ARMISTICE DAY TO BE OBSERVED HERE

Armistice day, Thursday of this week, will be observed in the Twin Cities as in the past by closing of retail stores from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, according to Dave Silverstein, chairman of the merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce.

This brief observance of November 11 will allow both employers and employes an opportunity to attend the various Armistice day programs.

"While we are in the midst of World war II, we must not forget the tremendous sacrifices made by our American fighting men in World war I," Mr. Silverstein stated.

TEXAN ON TRIP OF INSPECTION

Ventures Forth Into Louisiana For Initial Visit

RUSTON, La., Nov. 6.—(Special)—Praise of Louisiana or just common sense on the part of one Texas student enrolled at Louisiana Tech, enabled him to secure a comfortable ride back to college this week from his native state.

Private Marshall Webb, a marine transfer from East Texas State college, but whose home is in West Texas, last Sunday afternoon persuaded his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Webb of Fort Worth, to start him back toward Tech by bringing him a few miles toward Louisiana.

After leaving Forth Worth, Mrs. Webb stated that she had never been in the state of Louisiana so Private Webb capitalized on that fact by insisting that she at least come over the Texas line far enough to see Shreveport. She succumbed to his wiles and they arrived in Shreveport late Sunday afternoon. But by the time the party arrived in said city, Private Webb had convinced his big brother that he should see the college where his little brother is now receiving his higher education, so on to Ruston they came.

As a result, this city had two unexpected visitors Sunday night; but early Monday morning they began their journey back to Texas. No one was able to secure a resume of their impressions of Louisiana, but Private Webb states that they probably will not forget the trip for several months because their car will be at home in the garage until some more gas stamps are issued.

Battle Of Reserves

In Russia it has become a battle of reserves, with the odds on the side of the Red armies. Owing to the nature of the warfare both sides are suffering approximately equal losses in men. And the Russians have more men available on one front than the Nazis have on two fronts.

Ordinarily the attacker—in this case Russia—would be at a disadvantage in losses. But Hitler can not defend himself by standing still. Russia's outflanking strategy makes this impossible. The Nazis have been launching constant counterattacks to slow Russia's progress while they attempted to form a stable line somewhere in the rear. This is good defensive strategy when it works, but it is not working for the Nazis and is costly in terms of manpower.

If Hitler could fight a rear guard action, while surrendering space for time, as the Russians did to their advantage in 1941 and 1942, he could conserve his strength for a later test. But Hitler has little or no space to surrender for time. Every mile he retreats intensifies the strain in the Balkans, forces lower the morale of the German people and leaves more indefensible his cities from bomber attacks.

It is a desperate situation for the Nazis as their reserves melt away in what Berlin communiques describe as the most ferocious fighting in all history. Germany may be calling now upon the last of its forces not immediately engaged. If so, it is all the worse for the aggressors.

The Nazis being called up, according to eye-witness accounts, would rather go anywhere than the eastern front. It is a mental state that augurs well for continued Russian success.

OIL RELIEF

Recognizing the need for more foreign oil to take some of the strain off American oil resources which now are propping up virtually the entire allied war effort, negotiations are under way between the United States and Iran and the United States and Saudi Arabia. Washington apparently is going to finance large scale developments in the Middle East.

What the arrangements with Iran may be are not known. Britain has the preponderant concessions there. But American interests in Saudi Arabia are large. Standard Oil of California and the Texas company own jointly a quarter million square miles of concessions through the California Arabian Standard Oil company. Some reports describe this area as richer than the east Texas field.

General Somervell says of the Persian gulf-Mediterranean oil deposits:

"It would require a comparatively small amount of additional drilling to maintain production on account of the enormous sand thicknesses and large production of individual wells. Preliminary investigation indicates that additional refining facilities can be made without undue expenditures of steel and equipment and that the additional petroleum products will be available to the Mediterranean area as well as to the areas east of the Persian gulf."

Apparently America will not be called upon much longer to supply all of the oil needed in both the European and the Pacific theaters of war.

TOO MANY SHIPS

By the end of 1944 the United States will have 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 tons of merchant shipping, compared to only 8,000,000 tons before the war, and there will be little if any shipbuilding in this country unless the war should last longer than expected by most persons. At present 1,500,000 men are employed in building ships and they will have no alternative but to return to other occupations after the war.

Unless enemy submarine warfare stages an unexpected resurgence, the United States may have more ships than cargoes within another year. In that event there will be no more need for merchant ship construction.

As for post-war prospects of using all of this tremendous fleet of cargo carriers, it is pointed out that 50 per cent of British tonnage will be of medium fast vessels. The United States will have at least 75 per cent of the fleet made up of the slow Liberty ships of 10 or 11 knots, with the remaining 25 per cent made up of fairly modern mixed cargo and passenger vessels capable of 17 or 18 knots.

Even though the United States should have double its former peacetime tonnage in actual use after the war, the situation would still not be favorable for future shipbuilding.

GOVERNMENT PROFIT

The Postoffice Department made $33,000,000 on domestic airmail in the last fiscal year as compared with less than a fourth as much in 1941-42 and a loss of more than $13,000,000 ten years ago.

This represents a profit approximately 54 per cent of the gross business done. The airmail letter on which you paid six cents cost Uncle Sam somewhat less than three cents to handle, including payments to airlines, airmail postoffices, supplementary railroad mail services, etc.

If this keeps up, perhaps when more planes are available Uncle Sam will remember what Woolworth discovered in the five-and-tens.

CRADLE TO GRAVE

Fortune Magazine polled business leaders on the question: Do you think a "cradle-to-the-grave" program of minimum security for all in the United States is (a) Impossible and undesirable? (b) Economically possible but undesirable? (c) Desirable but impossible? (d) Economically possible and desirable?

Less than one out of five considers such a program both possible and desirable; only two out of five would want it if we could have it. Three out of five think it undesirable, even if it were possible.

We agree with the three out of five. But we would be interested in knowing what the mass of the people would say. We should expect a different response.

Jimmie Fidler
IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6.—Part of Hollywood is hilarious, part angry, over the "I-will-I-won't" marriage mix-up involving Anne Shirley and Victor Mature—a difference of opinion that's hardly surprising since Hollywood never agrees wholeheartedly on anything.

Many conflicting stories are told to explain why Miss Shirley, hitherto one of our most sensible young ladies, became party to this one hit, one error, one run-out engagement. To begin with, despite the fact that she joined mature in announcing marriage plans, I couldn't find anyone who believed they would actually marry. All whom I questioned said, "Oh, Anne will come to her senses," and if they meant what I meant when I said the same words, they were implying that Anne would discover that she and Mature were as ill-mated as two aces of spades in the same deck, and that she had best back out the way she came in, which was quickly and with fair notice to all.

In years past, I have always forgiven Mature's antics on the grounds that he is an actor. Actors, at best, are unpredictable—and the "magnificent hunk" is far from what I would term an "actor at best." But he has bad color, and as long as he flashed it without harm to others—or as long as his idiosyncrasies involved women who should have known better—I had no quarrel with him.

Of course, Anne was perhaps as much to blame as Mature, but somehow, I credit her involvement to innocence. Until I learn differently, there's a black mark on my Vic Mature report card—and he'll have to earn a lot of merits to erase it.

To Hollywood this week returned Captain Clark Gable of the United States air force. He wears the same mustache, speaks with the same clipped voice and walks with the same springy stride as the movie star we used to know—yet there's a significant difference. Gable, the screen star, always kidded about his work when he could be persuaded to talk about it at all. Captain Gable, discussing his work, speaks with such intensity and such enthusiasm that you see it's more than a job—it's his life. I think the captain is much the happier man.

The more you consider the evidence, the more you're convinced that these United States are a very remarkable country. For instance, take a gander at the present status of that colorful Hollywood gent, Mike Romanoff, alias Prince Michael Romanoff, alias Harry Gurgeson. Not so many years ago, Mike was known from coast-to-coast as a very naughty boy. Not only did he insist on posing as a Russian nobleman in order to chisel a competence from cafe society; he was so addicted to inscribing his alias on worthless checks that he spent much of his time in plebian American jails. Then his royal highness turned over a new leaf. He became a screen writer and actor and finally the proprietor of a swank Hollwood cafe—a solid citizen who counts the bluest of Hollywood bloods as his intimate pals. In any other country, Mike's spotless new garments of purity would have been smudged in public estimation, by his past—but this is America. Last week, newspapers reported that President Roosevelt autographed Mike's gold cigaret case. I repeat, we live in a remarkable land!

There's new talk about re-issuing many of the successful pictures of five or six years ago. Whenever the plans progress beyond the conversational stage, I want to suggest one picture that should be revived—"The Wizard of Oz." I've heard dozens of kids say they want to see it again, and I think those kids have a right to a break once in a while. They comprise at least fifty per cent of the habitual movie patrons, yet it's a rare year when any studio appreciates their patronage enough to tailor a picture especially for them.

According to Hollywood underground, a certain big-shot director, signed to film a super-colossal for a major lot is stymied because the studio's hoi-polloi have refused to work on his set. I'm chuckling. For 20 years, I've marvelled at the tyrannies of some directors. In pre-war days, when there were five workers for every movie job, those martinets got away with it, but today, with five jobs for every workman, the shoe is on the other foot. Before long, some of our pint-sized autocrats, for the sake of their own survival, are going to learn better manners. The Hollywood under-dog, for once, is on top.

Whenever people talk about Bette Davis, they cite her classic line, "I have no more sex-appeal than a pelican," to prove her modesty. After watching several gentlemen pelicans pay court to a lady pelican at the beach the other evening, I'm convinced we've all been guilty of jumping to a conclusion. I've never seen a human siren throw her admirers into such an eager dither as did that feathered glamour girl. Miss Davis, if she's really concerned, should console herself—s. a., thank heaven, can never be appraised from a single point of view.

M'EVOYS SCHOOL OF THE FUTURE

By J. P. McEvoy

There was a yarn in the papers the other day about Harpo Marx's little boy who had learned to add by fives—20 and 5 are 25, and 5 are 30, etc.—and all of Harpo's friends would say, "Isn't he smart and who does he take after and why does he always start with twenty?" Harpo would answer proudly, "Because he rides around in taxis and learned to add by watching the meter."

Well, my guess is that he really got the idea by watching his father watch the meter—which would make much more of an impression on him—for every time that flicker of pain would go across his father's fine sensitive face the little boy would say, "Daddy, what made you jump like that?" And his father could only point to the meter because his father doesn't talk. (Of course he can talk and only pretends that he can't in self-defense—because if you have a little boy and once he finds out that you can talk, you will spend the best hours of your life answering questions that even the OPA couldn't cook up.)

Anyway, some of us were saying the other night how smart it was of Harpo to take Junior taxi riding so at least one member of the family could add besides Chico, who turned agent. And that gave me the chance to talk about my favorite subject—which is how much more I know about education than people who are educated. And how, if I had my way, I'd change everything they do about school teaching—especially when it comes to teaching mathematics.

For instance, you can still find school books full of examples on how to figure out the number of rolls of wall paper it will take to paper a room—when everybody knows by the time the child of today grows big enough to have a room of his own, the walls be all glass or made out of plastic—which in turn will be made out of those little anchovie paste sandwiches they pass around at cocktail parties for new authors.

Or take my generation—and who hasn't! I spent the best hours of my carefree boyhood days learning how to figure the number of rolls of wall paper it would take to paper a room—and when I grew up I never found a paper hanger whose figures agreed with mine.

Once I decided I would take no more lip from them and hang my own wall paper—and that's when I realized what was fundamentally wrong with our system of education. In my school, children will be put to work hanging wall paper all over the school room—and after they have hung it then they can figure it, because after all, it's the wall paper on the wall that counts—not the wall paper on the floor, on the ladder, on the window, on the other children.

My school room would be just like home. Teacher would be Mother trying to figure out how many points for the day's shopping. She must also add yesterday's bill to the bill for today. The lesson would be for all the little children to help Mother. Once they learned that, they could all go home and help their own mothers. In this way parents would realize some return on their school taxes.

But what happens now? Children come home with problems like this: If it takes eight nails to nail on a horseshoe and a horse has four feet, and the first nail costs one cent and the second nail twice that and the third twice that, how much would it cost to shoe the horse. A fine way to educate children!

Me—I would give them all a racing form and let them learn to figure parlays. Then let them all chip in their pennies, call a bookie and place their bets. Imagine how excited all the little darlings would be about mathematics—and how interested—how eager to learn. Now imagine how thrilled their fathers would be! At last the little moppets are learning something they can really use later in life—and Pop can use tomorrow!

Fellow parents, I submit that even Prof. John Dewey, the father of progressive education, hasn't made a better suggestion for teaching arithmetic.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Sunday School Lesson For Nov. 14
Texts: Exodus 20:14; Matthew 5:27-30; Mark 10:2-12.

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

We have just studied a lesson on the sacredness of human life against a present background of wartime destruction of human life on a scale that we should never have thought possible in modern times. Similarly, we must consider the sanctity of the home in the face of conditions that increasingly tend toward the disruption of the home and the nullifying of influences that we have commonly associated with the home relationships of fatherhood, motherhood, and family life.

It is true that we have "Mothers' Day" and "Fathers' Day," and perhaps we should have "Sisters' Day" and "Brothers' Day." But this sort of emphasis may be as much a symptom of lessening regard for mothers, fathers, brothers and sisters as an evidence of enlarged affection. Most of us never needed a "Mothers' Day" to remind us of love and devotion to our mothers; every day for us was mother's day.

I have never forgotten a memorable occasion in Boston, when the late Senator Borah spoke in Symphony Hall on the recognition of Russia. In contrast with what has happened today, that was not then a popular proposal. A young man of the superpatriotic sort whose patriotism took the form of criticizing the patriotism of other people had poised himself in a prominent place in the front of the first gallery, and at a strategic moment he demanded to know why an American flag was not displayed on the platform.

There was an angry outburst of protest against the interruption, but Mr. Borah silenced it, and turning to the interrupter he said, "Young man, I have had nothing to do with the arrangements for this meeting, but I want you to know that wherever I go, and wherever I speak, I carry the flag and the principles of the constitution in my heart."

That is the place for them, and no amount of outward display of zeal will compensate if they are not in the heart. I mention this because it is so true, also, of all that applies to the home, and the family relationships. "Days," and outward symbols, good in themselves, will be inadequate to stem the tide that tends to overwhelm the sacredness of home and family life, if there is not in the heart the true reverence for the sanctity of the home.

The forces that are against that sanctity today are of two sorts. Some are in the nature of the world's development and "progress." Increasing attractions that tend to take people outside of the home in the hours that once were more commonly spent there are a powerful factor—the auto, the movies, the bowling alley, the club, the "social activities." All these things are legitimate and well enough in themselves, but they need to be watched lest they supplant the most important thing of all—the need of preserving home life.

Other forces are more definitely destructive, if not actually malignant. They underlie the declining sacredness of marriage and the enormous increase of divorce in American life. I am among those who believe that divorce has its legitimate and proper place in rectifying, as far as may be possible, unfortunate mistakes and hopeless situations. These do occur, and the sanctity of marriage is not uphelp or furthered by perpetuating them. But divorce as widely practiced in American life today is little more than a pretentious cover for irresponsible relationships.

The Bible is our great textbook of the sanctity of home and family life. It is a great heritage from the Suadism of the Old Testament that the New Testament has only enforced with consistent teachings and great examples. Hence the importance of this lesson, and the study of it in the presence of all that threatens the sancitity of the home.

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson

(Monroe Morning World Washington Correspondent)

When Wendell Berge, the new assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division, held his first press conference to announce the filing of a civil complaint against Merck and company, manufacturing chemists accused of maintaining a cartel agreement with E. Merck Chemical Works of Darmstadt, Germany, an assistant took a box of cigars from Mr. Berge's desk and passed it around to correspondents. On the lid of the box in big letters was the name "Union League club."

What was this? Was the New Deal's anti-trust division going arch-conservative all of a sudden?

It was just the brand name, Mr. Berge hastened to assure, and the cigars were from the Union League club of Chicago, not the one in New York. But this Union League club of Chicago is the one that used to have an "anti-New Deal room," all black, with a star for every one of the hundred or more New Deal agencies. So the laugh was still on Mr. Berge.

Even if Thurman Arnold's successor as champion of the Sherman anti-trust law does like a Republican capitalist's brand of cigar, he is giving no indications that he will ease up on prosecutions of illegal casuals, monopolies and combinations in restraint of trade.

* * *

Post-War Pattern

The Merck case is the first of what Mr. Berge says will be a number like it to be developed during the next year to keep alive the American idea of free enterprise and open competition as a pattern for planning post-war international economy.

In the Merck case, the charge reduced to simplest terms is that the American Merck company in 1932 made a "treaty" with German Merck whereby the American company had use of the Merck trademark in the sale of some 400 chemicals and pharmaceuticals, including quinine, sulpha drugs, and the vitamins, in the United States and Canada, while the German company retained exclusive rights for practically all the rest of the world. The American company was, for instance, shut out of the South American market—that is, until the British blockade of 1939 made it impossible for the Germans to deliver.

Then the American company revived an old and inactive subsidiary, Powers-Weightman-Rosengarten corporation, to take over the German business in Latin America for the duration, with every understanding that all the Latin American business would be returned to the German company at the end of the war. The department of justice suit is to dissolve the treaty between the two companies and to enjoin American Merck from refusing to fill orders from established dealers in drugs in foreign countries.

* * *

Meaning Of 'Aggression'

It so happens that while Mr. Wendell Berge was explaining all this in the department of justice in Washington, and while the actual suit against the Merck companies was being filed in Trenton, N. J., up on Capitol Hill the senate was about to begin its fourth day of debate on the Connolly post-war foreign policy resolution. In that debate, Senator Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, O., made a speech for broadening the Connolly resolution, and he was questioned by Senator Abe Murdock of Beaver, Utah, on the meaning of the word "aggression" in the text of the resolution, where it declares:

"That the United States . . . (shall) join . . . in the establishment . . . of international authority . . . to prevent aggression and preserve the peace of the world."

Was it just "military aggression," as had been stated in the original draft of the resolution? Or was "economic aggression" also included?

Without perhaps realizing it at the time, the senators were then considering the very essence of the question of international cartels—the world-trusts such as those fostered in Germany and participated in by business monopolies of nearly every nation. Economic aggression of this sort has been part and parcel of the Nazi scheme of world conquest which made it impossible to do business with Hitler.

SPENDING AFTER WAR PROPOSED

Governor Jones And Banker Would Assure Economic Progress

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Louisiana's Governor Sam Jones and a vice-president of the Atlanta branch of the Federal Reserve Bank joined today in recommending for the south a campaign for post-war spending to assure future economic progress.

Addressing representatives of 10 southern states meeting here under auspices of the Council of State Governments and the Louisiana commission, Governor Jones and Malcolm Bryan urged increased investments in southern industry.

Citing the good neighbor policy as an example of how to "spend money to make money," Governor Jones said:

"If it is a good thing for the American government and American business to assist these countries (South and Central American republics) in developing their national resources wouldn't it also be a good thing for the American government and American business to assist the underdeveloped sections of this country to achieve the same end?"

After outlining the method Louisiana is using to coordinate industry and agriculture, he added that the south which produces a large percentage of the basic raw materials of the nation, is far behind other sections in industrial production.

He pointed out that cooperation by American government and American business would create more markets to form the basis of a sound post-war economy. He said "if people of the south wait for a government dole, then all our post-war plans are doomed to failure. It is up to private industry, and to state and local governments to take over the responsibility of setting up a sound post-war system."

Bryan, following Governor Jones to the speakers' stand, said he does not expect a depression during the post-war period, at least not during the years immediately following the end of the war because "it will be a goods-shortage and not a goods-surplus economy."

Because of their savings during the war, Bryan said, people will have more money than any time in history, and will want to buy the things of which they are now being deprived because of war conditions.

GIVING CIGARETTE TO GERMAN PAYS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A cigarette given to a German prisoner paid dividends to Lieutenant Charles E. Kemp "somewhere in Italy."

The transaction was described in a letter to his father, Lieutenant Colonel Charles McK. Kemp, at Camp Harahan, near here.

"I was taking a couple of platoons around an enemy flank and we were proceeding up a creek bed abount 500 yards from the rest of the company. It was about time to leave the creek and cut across country so I took a man with me and went up a hill to look around. We found a German outpost of two men and took them prisoner. I sent one of the Germans back to the company and told my runner to bring up my men. I kept the other German to question.

"When no one showed up after waiting half an hour, I started back with my little German corporal in front of me. We had gone a short way when we were fired upon. Both of us hit the ground * * *.

"The next shot hit me, so we dived for the other side of a nearby wall. That made me the prisoner since I no longer was armed and the German was unhurt. He must have been tired of the war and he must have liked me for I had given him a cigarette. Anyway, he sprinkled my sulfa powder on my wound, fed me my pills, bandaged my arm, helped me back to my company, and gave himself up!"

Lieutenant Kemp was commissioned in February, 1942, upon graduating from the infantry officer candidate school at Fort Benning, Ga. Last June he sailed for Africa, and he was among the first contingent to land in Sicily.

REJECTS ROLES TO BE WITH SOLDIER

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The man was about to be sent overseas, Olivia De Havilland testified at a hearing on her refusal to accept certain film roles, and she wanted to spend as much time with him as possible.

The actress, contesting the validity of a contract with Warner Brothers, was asked yesterday by Charles A. Loring, studio counsel:

"Isn't it a fact that you refused a part in 'Animal Kingdom' because of your love for a man who has gone to China?"

"No," she answered. "This man had two or three weeks before he went to China for the duration. I felt that with the interests of the country at heart I should spend as much time with him as possible."

The man was not identified.

Superior Judge Charles Burnell, taking the case under submission, remarked:

"This testimony isn't pertinent, perhaps, but it's nice to have a little romance in the hearing."

MRS. SWAYZE IS SEEKING OFFICE

Widow Of Former City Commissioner Is Candidate For Assessor

Mrs. R. Dellie Swayze is formally announcing for the office of Ouachita parish assessor and in this connection states as follows:

"Since the death of my husband, who served the people of Monroe efficiently and faithfully for many years as commissioner of streets and parks, I have been urged by many of my friends from time to time to offer myself as candidate for political office. I am pleased now to announce my candidacy for the office of tax assessor of Ouachita parish in the Democratic primary, Jan. 18, 1944.

"In seeking this office, it is my earnest desire to serve all people of our parish fairly, efficiently and faithfully. A further desire in seeking office is that I have the ability to handle the duties of the office of assessor, and am seriously in need of the remuneration paid for these duties in making an honest and dignified living for myself.

"I shall not at any time during my campaign direct criticisms at my opponent, but shall at all times conduct my campaign on the same high, clean level plane reminiscent of campaigns conducted by my late husband, R. Dellie Swayze.

"The women of America for the past several years have been urgently and persistently requested to take over duties of men in war plants, factories, other industries, commerce, transport aviation, farm production and other lines of endeavor formerly, and in many cases through tradition only, occupied by men. Women of America have also been entreated to take a more active part in politics and government.

"Some states have seen fit to send women to congress, an elective position. The people of Louisiana have seen fit to elect and re-elect one of their women to the high state office of registrar of lands. Several Louisiana parishes have elected women as state representatives, but Ouachita parish has no women serving as an elected official in its ward offices, parish offices, city commission offices or in the state legislature.

"I appeal earnestly to voters of Ouachita parish to give your women a chance and go to the polls Jan. 18 next and elect me as your next assessor."

Mrs. Swayze was formely Miss Mabel Fairbanks, born in 1887 in Sicily Island, where she attended public schools. She married Mr. Swayze in Natchez, Miss., and came to Ouachita parish to live in 1919 and has resided here ever since. She is a member of the O. E. S. and St. Francis auxiliary.

War Girl Of The Week

MISS JEANICE DUNKLIN

Miss Jeanice Dunklin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Dunklin, LaRue, Tex.

She was born in LaRue and received her early education there. After completing three years in the LaRue Junior High school she transferred to the Athens, Tex., High school, graduating in June, 1932. Later she returned to the Athens High school for post graduate work in commerce.

In order to get more specialized business training than high school afforded, she enrolled in the Draughon's Business college, Dallas. After completing a stenographic course there she was employed in the office of a cotton buyer and later as a cashier in the Stirman drug store in Athens.

In the summer of 1942 Jeanice decided to prepare herself for a job that would aid in the war effort. She chose parachute packing because she felt that this line of work would help in a tangible way to win the war. She enrolled in the Cox Parachute school, Tyler, Tex., and, after satisfactorily passing all required tests, received a CAA license as a parachute packer in September, 1942.

On September 17, 1942, she was employed by air service command, 78th sub-depot, Selman field, where she packs and repairs parachutes and inspects life rafts. She has achieved her goal and has become a vital cog in the all-out effort of air service command to fulfill its slogan "They Keep 'Em Flying."

VICTORY GARDEN PAYS DIVIDENDS

Goal Of 22,000,000, With Larger Plots, Suggested For 1944

By James Marlow And George Zielke

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—They laughed when the victory gardener set out to do his bit by raising vegetables in any little space he could dig up.

There were plenty of jokes about wasting seed and fertilizer, not to mention the untold hours of work poured into these garden plots.

The agriculture department, at the beginning, was a bit cool toward the idea. Its first victory garden bulletin said, "if you are experienced and have a good plot garden, go ahead but if you aren't, don't—because you would be wasting seed and fertilizer and taking tools away from those who could use them."

And now?

President Roosevelt told congress:

"Much credit is due to the patriotic men and women who spent so much time and energy in planting 20,000,000 victory gardens in the United States, and helped to meet the food requirements. It is estimated that about 8,000,000 tons of food were produced in 1943 in these victory gardens."

And the war food administration says:

"Victory gardens are making a large and valuable contribution to our total food supply. Because of this and because the need for food, particularly the health-producing vegetables, perhaps will be greater than ever in 1944, it is suggested that the goal be set at 22,000,000 gardens"—an increase of 10 per cent.

Furthermore, the WFA wants every victory gardener to increase the size of his plot, if possible, to supply the major vegetable needs of his family.

The official view now is that any waste of seed and fertilizer by the inexperienced gardener is slight in comparison to the savings in terms of labor, transportation, packaging or canning required for an equivalent amount of food produced commercially.

There is no shortage of seed, the WFA says, there will be a supply of improved fertilizers available for victory gardeners and there is a plan to increase the supply of small garden tools, hand cultivators, sprayers and dusters.

There's just one general bit of advice food officials offer:

Better not try to grow such crops as sweet corn, potatoes and green peas which take up a lot of space. Concentrate instead on such crops as tomatoes, green and yellow leafy vegetables like carrots, green beans, lettuce and onions.

JUDGE TALIAFERRO MAY SUCCEED ODOM

Judge R. M. Taliaferro, associate judge of the Second circuit court of appeal, indicated to friends while here last week that he would seek election to succeed Judge Odom as a member of the supreme court of Louisiana. It is generally thought that Judge Odom, whose term expires December 31, 1944, will not seek reelection.

If elected, Judge Taliaferro will be but following a line of precedents. Judge Thompson succeeded Judge Hall on the court of appeal in 1911 when Hall was elected to the supreme court; Judge Odom succeeded Judge Thompson on the court of appeal when he was elected to the supreme court and Judge Taliaferro succeeded Judge Odom on the court of appeal when Odom was promoted to the supreme court.

Judge Taliaferro is well known throughout this entire section. His home is at Harrisonburg and he has several relatives and numerous friends in Monroe whom he has visited often.

MAY RECOGNIZE CIVILIANS HERE

Workers At Airport In Line For War Department Awards

Some of Selman field's small army of civilian workers may soon be in line for awards from the war department for their services to the air forces here.

The secretary of war, recently directed that service awards be conferred upon eligible civilian employes of the war department throughout the United States in acknowledgment of faithful and meritorious performance of duty. In the official directive, Secretary Stimson states that "civilian employes of the war department are contributing significantly to the successful prosecution of the war."

Plans now are being made to present the first of these awards to civilian workers with appropriate ceremonies early in December.

The decorations are being established, according to Secretary Stimson's order, "in furtherance of the department's policy to encourage the continuance of the highest individual effort and to recognize those civilians who have served faithfully, meritoriously and exceptionally." Arrangements for the bestowal are under the direction of the secretary of war's council on personnel. The awards are authorized under an act of the 78th congress granting non-monetary rewards in recognition of such services.

Secretary Stimson's directive provides that three different classes of awards shall be presented to eligible civilian employes of the following agencies within the war department: office of the secretary of war; office of the chief of staff; army air forces; army ground forces, and army service forces.

The decorations will be in the form of lapel ribbons, suitable for wear on the coat or dress, and will bear the emblem in colors of the unit issuing the citation. The ribbon is woven in blue and silver colors. Additional strands of braid at each end of the ribbon will be used to denote the two higher awards. When an employe is presented with more than one of the awards, only the highest will be worn.

The three classes of awards and the basis on which each is to be conferred are:

1. Emblem for civilian service, the basic pattern for all three decorations, to be conferred on all employes having a record of six consecutive months of satisfactory service, or who are granted one of the higher awards prior to completion of six months service.

2. Emblem for meritorious civilian service will be granted automatically to all employes of the war department who have completed ten years of faithful and satisfactory service within the department, provision having been made to the effect that time absent from civilian duty occasioned by military service will not constitute a break in consecutive service, but will be credited towards the required ten years service.

Others eligible include employes who have been responsible for suggesting new methods or procedures; achieved outstanding records of satisfactory and faithful service and devotion to duty; shown initiative in developing the skills of employes, or those who have made important contributions to morale-building activities.

The award of the emblem for meritorious civilian service, while it does not automatically provide a meritorious in-grade promotion, will be given added weight by the reviewing committee if the recipient is recommended for such promotion.

3. Emblem for exceptional civilian service will be conferred by the secretary of war himself or his personal representative and will be accompanied by a letter of commendation or certificate with a specific citation signed by the secretary. This award will in itself be considered justification for a meritorious in-grade promotion, and will be in recognition of exceptionally meritorious service either within or beyond the call of duty.

Those eligible include employes who have developed and improved methods and procedures on a broad scale which result in substantial improvements in economy or efficiency to the war department as a whole; employes who have exhibited courage in the face of danger while in the performance of their duty and have shown initiative in the saving of life or government property, and employes who have performed some outstanding service not otherwise covered by the regulations, but which, in the opinion of the war department board on civilian awards, merits departmental recognition.

INDIAN IS STALKING 'MUSTACHE SMELLER'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Where is the "vanishing American" now? He's up there relentlessly stalking the "mustache smeller"—his name for Hitler—and using the bayonet on Japanese.

The 400,000 American Indians, with their superb, tireless fighting men and their traditional war fervor, are one of the most potent minority groups assisting in the march toward victory, the Office of Indian Affairs said today in a report on war activities.

Since Pearl Harbor, 18,000 warrior descendants of Geronimo and Crazy Horse, Tecumseh, Sitting Bull and the rest have joined the armed forces, most of them volunteers.

In some tribes, said Commissioner John Collier, 60 or 70 per cent of the able-bodied men between 18 and 38 have gone to war.

General Douglas MacArthur, in a recent message from Australia, said of the American Indian soldier:

"As a warrier his fame is worldwide. Many successful methods of modern warfare are based on what he evolved many centuries ago. * * * His tactics, so brilliantly utilized by our first great commander, George Washington, again apply in basic principle to the vast jungle-covered reaches of the present war."

Indians who have written their names in history in this war range from a major general, Clarence T. Tinker, who personally led his forces in the battle of Midway and was killed, to Private Joe Longknife, who killed ten Japanese with 16 shots and saved his platoon from possible ambush.

ARREST ANNOUNCED

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—R. A. Guerin, special agent in charge of the New Orleans office of the federal bureau of investigation, today announced the arrest of Harold John Adams, 24, of New Orleans on a charge of impersonating a United States naval officer and cashing a fraudulent check at a hotel in Biloxi, Miss., April 11, 1943. Guerin said that Adams, a merchant seaman, returned here within the past few days.

TO TELL ABOUT LATEST SCIENCE

Dr. Gerald Wendt, Noted Editor, Student, To Give Address

Dr. Gerald Wendt, authority for Time, Life and Fortune magazines on scientific and industrial developments, is to give members of Monroe Town Hall on Tuesday, November 9 at 8:15 p.m. a description of "New Laboratory Wonders for Us All." The lecture, a return engagement by request, will be delivered in the Ouachita parish high school auditorium, stated Mrs. J. B. Kugler, Town Hall secretary.

Dr. Wendt is expected to describe the new "miracles" evolved by scientists for large-scale production at the close of the war, and to describe the anticipated changes in home and community life, business and industry with their widespread use by the public.

Acknowledged as the foremost interpreter of science to the layman, Dr. Wendt for several years has devoted himself to the task of bringing a better understanding of the implications and opportunities in the work of the research laboratories. He is frequently called upon to be spokesman for science on international radio broadcasts such as a recent program shortwaved to British listeners across the Atlantic.

Dr. Wendt's knowledge of such projected products as helicopters, two-way radio telephones which can be switched into regular telephone circuits, use of yeast-growths to give us better food, paint which transmits light, conversion of straw into motor fuel, furnaces to keep homes cool in summer, and other newly-created marvels provide him with illustrations for the theme of his talk.

Dr. Wendt carries with him a pocketfull of samples of such items as nylon to replace leather in shoes, light weight plastics such as are expected to be used for automobile and airplane bodies, material for insulation which is many times lighter than cork, and "beefsteaks" richer than cattle meat made from yeast.

Broad knowledge of the world's resources of raw materials and his constant contact with industries, laboratories and college research in all parts of this country and abroad provide Dr. Wendt with a fund of information as to what can be expected in the post-war years.

Dr. Wendt was chosen to be director of the New York World's Fair science exhibits which provided the theme of the exposition; he was director of research for the Standard Oil company of Indiana and research consultant for the General Printing Ink corporation and the Coffee Products corporation; and in the last war served as captain in the United States army chemical warfare service.

For years he edited "Chemical Review," official organ of the American Chemical society, and was member of the International Congress of Pure and Applied Chemistry. His most recent book is "Science for the World Tomorrow."

WIVES AT SELMAN CONTRIBUTE $560

Raise That Much For Community Chest With Benefit Bridge

Wives of Selman field's officers presented a contribution of $560 to the Twin City Community chest on Friday afternoon at the Advanced Cadet club, scene of a giant benefit bridge, when Mrs. Charles R. Bowman, chairman of the benefit, handed a check for the amount to Thomas W. Davenport, a director of the Community Chest.

Terming the gift and its occasion "quite the happiest and finest thing that has ever happened in Monroe," Mr. Davenport accepted the check with hearty thanks on behalf of the board of directors of the Community Chest. That organization has undertaken this year to raise not only the funds required for its own activities, a sum of about $32,000, but also the Ouachita parish quota of the National War Fund, amounting to $46,680. The total is more than $78,000.

Mrs. Bowman, wife of Lieutenant Colonel Charles R. Bowman, executive officer of Selman field, said on behalf of the officers' wives that "we hope that this will express in a small way our appreciation for all the nice things that the citizens of Monroe and West Monroe have done for us."

"More than that," Mrs. Bowman continued, "we feel it a distinct privilege to take part in the Community Chest drive."

The brief ceremony took place on the flower-decked dance band platform of the spacious cadet dance hall before 500 women who were seated at card tables in the course of the afternoon's pursuit.

Sandwiches, coffee, soft drinks, cookies and candies were served by a throng of ladies who wore small red lettered cards marked "hostess."

Immediately after the presentation of the check, Mrs. Roland V. DeMichele began the awarding of some 60 door prizes, all of which had been donated by merchants of the Twin Cities. Dresses, meal tickets, jewelry, suits, hats, lingerie, dishes, camera film, toilet articles, flowers and, mark you, hose, found their way in a quick and incongruous succession to lucky guests at random tables all over the crowded room.

Much of the refreshment also was donated, reducing to a minimum the overhead expenses of the event. Tickets to the benefit were $1 each, though some wives made contributions in addition.

Besides Mrs. Bowman and Mrs. DeMichele, who was chairman of prizes, other women instrumental in the success of the function were Mrs. Earl L. Naiden, Mrs. John A. Rowe and Mrs. William B. Davis, in charge of refreshments; Mrs. Theodore B. Merrill, who handled publicity; Mrs. James Beattie, Jr., and Mrs. Darwin S. Fenner, decorations; and Mrs. Walter L. Scarborough and Mrs. Paul E. Sparks, tickets.

NIGHT CLASSES POPULAR HERE

Additional Ones To Be Provided; To Form More On Nov. 10

Popularity of night classes and the growing demands made by war plants or related industries have increased the number or courses offered by Northeast Junior college through the general extension division of Louisiana State university with Dr. Marion B. Smith director.

Additional classes offered with or without college credit are geography, journalism, and public speaking, Dean C. C. Colvert, announced Saturday.

An organization meeting to form these classes is scheduled Wednesday, November 10, at 7:30 p.m. in room 204 of the administration building. This represents a change in the original announcement for the formation of the geography class.

All classes will meet two nights each week and will carry five quarter hours of credit. The fee is $10. Time and nights for regular class work will be determined at the organization meeting.

The course in geography is offered by W. R. Hammond, head of the social science department of the local college. The world crisis has given added significance to a study of geography, according to Dr. Smith. He added:

"We are living in a world in which a knowledge of geography is essential to an understanding of every day news items. We hear of happenings in India, Burma, Iran, Iraq, and many far-away places. Our returning soldiers will have tales to tell about all parts of the world. American business of the future will be in South America, Asia, Africa and Australia, as well as in Europe and the United States. Few of us are well informed on the subject of human geography, and yet no subject is of greater use at the present time."

To afford individuals an opportunity to become informed on vital topics of the present, the college is offering classes in principles of human geography and economic and political geopraphy of Europe or economic and political geography of Latin America.

A comprehensive course in journalism will include both newspaper writing and editing. The class will be taught by Miss Mary Bell Mason, who received the bachelor's degree as a journalism major at the University of Missouri. She now is on the staff of the Morehouse Enterprise, Bastrop weekly.

Miss Sarah Helen Word, instructor in speech at N. J. C., will have charge of the class in public speaking, a course which has proved popular in both regular and extension work.

Feminine Monroe Looks Forward To Benefit Affair Planned By Club

It is fun to forget dire forebodings these days and, throwing care to the winds, go forth to benefit card parties without which the early winter season would never be quite complete.

The benefit card party Wednesday afternoon sponsored by the Welcome Branch Book club members is for the purpose of raising sufficient funds for a student nurse scholarship. As a result of this club's activities and the generous response of the public, two young women are now receiving training at the St. Francis school of nursing in this city. When members of the Welcome Branch Book club were infomed through the regular channels that 65,000 nurses are needed, they decided to do something about it.

The need for action among federated club members in regard to the student nurse scholarships was brought out in convincing manner by the national president, Mrs. John L. Whitehurst at the state convention in Shreveport last week.

Welcome Branch Book club members attending the convention returned home more determined than ever to make these scholarships their main project of the year.

The card party on Wednesday will be exceptionally pleasant from a special standpoint. The hostesses will extend courtesies in the lounge of the Monroe Recreation center where beautiful flowers arranged through the courtesy of the Welcome Garden club, will offer a colorful background for the placement of the card tables.

A distinct feature of the afternoon will be the distribution of handsome prizes. They will be presented for scores in bridge and Liverpool rummy and as door prizes. A grand prize will be awarded the guest holding the lucky ticket.

Tickets for this interesting event are now on sale and can be obtained from Mrs. F. H. Peterson, chairman of the committee and Mrs George Phebus, Mrs. G. V. Prewett, Mrs. T. H. Scott, Mrs. J. G. Hicks, Mrs. J. D. Petty.

All card players are requested to bring their own cards and reserve their tables. Reservations can be made by contacting Mrs. R. I. Senn, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. Zell Smith. Players will be found for those who do not make up their table in advance.

Members of the Welcome Branch Book club who will extend courtesies on this occasion are:

Book Reviews Feature Review Club Meeting

Mrs. C. B. Braun reviewed in delightful manner, Elliott Paul's novel, "The Last Time I Saw Paris," when members of the Review club met in the home of Mrs. C. V. McGimsey for the regular monthly program.

Another interesting book review, "Miracle On the Congo," was given by Mrs. W. L. Mitchell. This book begins where Elliot Paul's book ends and gives genuine hope for the future in the spirit and the fighting of General De Gaulle's Free French. What happened to France and what may befall that country in days to come is of deepest concern to all of us who read, think and feel.

Members present were: Mrs. C. B. Braun, Mrs. H. W. Colbert, Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. W. T. Davis, Mrs. A. T. Givens, Mrs. DeWitt Henry, Mrs. A. R. Holloway, Mrs. J. C. Loftin, Mrs. C. V. McGimsey, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Mrs. D. M. Moore, Mrs. Walter Rhodes, and Mrs. Sam Smith.

Women Voters League Instruct Commissioners

The Monroe League of Women Voters will hold a school of instruction for commissioners at the polls, Monday night at the Frances hotel, room A at 8 o'clock. A representative from Attorney General Stanley's office will be there to instruct those present. The league extends an invitation to all those who are interested in knowing more about directing an efficient election to come. The meeting will be open to men and women.

Registration of voters is going steadily along and the league urges all citizens who have not yet registered as voters to do so. Every one who appreciates a free country should do their part to keep this freedom. Participation in one's government not only is a great privilege but a duty as well.

Prominent Monroe Woman Elected To High Office In Federated Woman's Club

The meeting of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs in Shreveport last week served a reminder that women have come a long way from the tea party, embroidery circle, and poetry reading stages.

Mrs. John L. Whitehurst of Baltimore, Md., General Federation president, a prominent figure at the convention, reminded her colleagues that they must recognize their national and social problems and accept responsibilities as citizens to the point where they will be willing to exert themselves to the fullest.

The selection of Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, prominent club woman and social leader of this city, for president of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs, seemed a very wise choice at this particular time when attention is focused upon several major home front problems growing out of the war and calls for vigorous and coordinated action this year in their solution.

Mrs. Tisdale is exceptionally well versed in the problems confronting women today and has some firm convictions on the potential force and the responsibilities of women's clubs. Her ideas are new and stimulating and will be drawn together and set to the loom of a definite pattern when she assumes office.

Mrs. Tisdale is the type of person who will urge more scholarships for nurses; the organization of more Victory clubs; the enrollment of every woman in a Red Cross home nursing course; increased effort to combat juvenile delinquency, and more active participation in recruiting women for industry. She is the type of state president who will urge club women to hold forums at every meeting, to have discussion groups in their homes instead of bridge parties, to "think" about peace, develop convictions and be ready to make them known.

The club women of Louisiana performed a master stroke when they elected Mrs. Tisdale president of their great organization. She is undoubtedly a leader among women in this section of the state and is better fitted than any other to lead federated club women safely through the hazardous times ahead. We venture to say she will not miss a single opportunity to urge club women to assume leadership in their communities, emphatically asserting that they are now better fitted than the majority by their study classes and forums on subjects ranging from the local school board to international relations.

Mrs. Tisdale is not only a natural born executive, and a business woman of recognized ability but a gracious hostess, and a wonderful mother. She is an accomplished musician and a civic leader and is in great demand as an after-dinner speaker. Greatly to her credit is her complete dependability. She can be depended upon to give an impromptu talk whenever called upon as she has a receptive mind and has a vast storehouse of knowledge at her command.

Election of Mrs. Tisdale was the climax of the streamlined 44th annual convention of the federation.

Mrs. Samuel Levy of Natchitoches, second vice-president during the past administration, was elevated to the office of first vice-president. Other officers elected are: Second vice-president, Mrs. H. M. Mims of Baton Rouge; recording secretary, Mrs. James Means of Vivian; treasurer, Mrs. Clyde W. Johnson of New Orleans; and auditor, Mrs. G. C. Van Neste of De Ridder. Mrs. Tisdale also named Mrs. H. V. Collins of Monroe, corresponding secretary. The nominating committee for the convention was headed by Mrs. C. E. Hester of Tallulah with Miss Bessie Noble of Mangham as secretary.

Mr. And Mrs. Earle Fete Wedding Party

Today is Miss Robertine Rhymes' wedding day and she will walk altarward fresh and lovely. Miss Rhymes requested hostesses to cancell all prenuptial affairs planned during her engagement days due to war-time restrictions and rationing. Therefore the days leading up to her wedding, were unhurried and spent leisurely with her parents at their plantation home.

One prenuptial affair not cancelled was the dinner party at the plantation home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Earle on Clear Lake for members of the wedding party. Mrs. Oliver Lowery was hostess on this occasion and was assisted by her mother, Mrs. C. W. Earle and her sister, Mrs. Leslie Richardson.

Beautiful crimson roses were everywhere in evidence in the reception suite where the guests were greeted and champagn cocktails served before dinner.

The dinner table was developed in shades of yellow with an oblong plaque of yellow roses forming the central decor. The table was serviced in gold banded haviland and crystal.

A beautiful corsage of Talisman roses marked the cover reserved for Miss Rhymes.

Following the serving of a delicious five course dinner, demi-tasse was served in the living room. The hostess took this opportunity to present Miss Rhymes with a set of handsome dinner plates in her chosen pattern.

Miss Rosanne Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reid, left last week for Austin, Texas, where she entered the junior class at the state university. Miss Reid is a popular member of Monroe's younger set.

Mrs. Frank Pierce Cantwell, lower right, the former Miss Miriam Freeman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs Arthur Merriman Freeman, former residents of this city. The marriage of Lieutenant and Mrs. Cantwell took place recently in Shreveport.

Miss Virginia Earl Kersh Marries Lieutenant John Miller In Los Angeles

Ceremony Performed In Picturesque Church

Miss Jane McKenzie Serves As Bridesmaid At Wedding; Reception Follows

All the romance of a war time ceremony characterized the wedding of Miss Virginia Earl Kersh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kersh of this city, when she became the bride of Lieutenant John R. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Miller of Brewton, Ala., October 23, at the Little Church of the Flowers in Los Angeles, Calif. This quaint little church was patterned after the century-old English church of Stoke Poges in Buckinghamshire, England, and is typical of the village churches of England. On each side of the nave are five arches in which swing great, sweeping ferns. Behind them are the flower-banked windows, through which the soft light shines. Blithe-voiced canaries fill the Little Church with songs of joy and happiness.

There was a program of organ music accompanying the tuneful melody of the birds swinging in their cages bordering the aisle down which the wedding procession walked.

Miss Jane McKenzie, daughter of Congressman and Mrs. C. E. McKenzie of this city, served as maid of honor. She wore a glamorous frock of gold satin and net. The tight fitting bodice was fashioned of gold satin with bracelet length sleeves. The bouffant skirt, long and full, was of net. A bow of gold gauze was worn behind her pompadour. She carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses and blue delphinium.

The bridegroom was attended by his father and his groomsmen were Captain Larry Johnston and Mr. C. C. Huxford.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory satin wedding gown fashioned with tight fitting bodice, and long, tight fitting, sleeves puffed high at the shoulders. Seed pearls etched the neckline. The skirt long and full ended in a court train over which fell an heirloom Brussel's lace veil caught to the hair with orange blossoms. Her exotic bouquet was fashioned of orchids and gardenias. The veil was purchased in Brussels by a member of the bridegroom's family many years ago and has been worn by generations of brides in the Miller family.

An informal reception was held at the Ambassador hotel following the wedding. There was all the excitement and fanfare of a big reception despite the fact that travel is so difficult nowadays, that only few jaunt forward and back to weddings. Many friends of the bride and bridegroom residing in Los Angeles, hearing of the wedding flocked to the reception.

Mrs. Kersh, the bride's mother wore a black crepe model embroidered in sequins. Her corsage was of purple orchids.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Miller wore a black crepe model trimmed in crystal beads. Her corsage was of white orchids.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. C. C. Huxford, wore a black model with inserts of black bugle beads and a corsage of mauve colored orchids.

Toasts to the bride and bridegroom were drunk in champagne. A variety of choice tidbits were served from a beautifully appointed buffet.

The bride changed her wedding raiment for a smartly tailored green gabardine model with brown hat and alligator shoes and purse. A corsage of orchids added a note of distinction.

The bride, a social favorite, is a graduate of the University of Alabama where she was a reigning belle. She is a member of Chi Omega sorority. She was a member of the Spinster club and the Junior charity league.

Lieutenant Miller is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, among Brewton's most prominent residents, and grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Miller, whose names are synonymous with the industrial, civic and cultural growth of this section. His maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John McGowin, of Chapman, prominent citizens of central Alabama.

Lieutenant Miller graduated from Culver Military academy and attended the University of Alabama and the University of Virginia. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

After receiving his wings as glider pilot at Albuquerque, New Mexico he was stationed at Bowman field.

PRESIDENT OF FEDERATED CLUBS

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, prominent club woman of this city, was elected state president of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs at the annual state convention in Shreveport last week.

Mrs. Gibson Addresses Welcome Branch Club

"You, Your Children, and the War," was the interesting subject selected by Mrs. E. C. Gibson when she talked before members of the Welcome Branch Book club at the regular semi-monthly meeting at the Monroe recreation center. Mrs. V. S. Garnett was another speaker who held the attention of her audience at this time. She talked on the subject of the "Importance of the Home Front to the Battle Front."

Mrs. Gibson, said in part: "Many are realizing that courageous parents and a courageous child somehow go together. Many are realizing that deepened understanding can lead parents to achieve greater courage, many are wanting, therefore, to approach their present questions with tools that can help them build new life. Children need a lot of affection to live with stamina in a world at war. Parents can help children to take the war years in stride. But to do so, they themselves must take them in stride. Parents can raise their own morale through psychological understandings. We need to realize that trust and confidence and love are far more reassuring to children than long explanations and denials of danger. When we make children too ashamed and guilty over their hostility we also make them hide it from themselves. Once having hidden it, they can take no steps to better or control it.

"Hostility that is hidden is, however, not dead. It comes out in disguised forms. Behavior problems of various sorts in children are disguised hostilities coming out. It is far more important that children learn democracy in school than that they learn Latin and a lot of other subjects. Teachers and parents must work closely together to help children become the kinds of people who can live democratically. Our children will inherit democracy. We must educate them to carry it on. Children need to feel some degree of safety—as do we all—in navigating through a world of terror and war. Demands for achievement which are too difficult make him feel unable to cope—they can shatter his sense of safety. Conversely, he needs to know that he can achieve successfully all along. He needs affection and response as well to help him toward any degree of real security—he needs belongingness, too, and also some measure of sensory gratification. These make him capable of feeling sufficiently safe to move forward with courage through war into peace."

Members present were: Mesdames Stanley Archibald, F. E. Black, Sam Campbell, H. D. Cleaver, A. R. Doughty, J. T. Eubank, W. C. Faulk, V. S. Garnett, E. C. Gibson, Harry Moore, F. H. Promotion Of Program Of War Is Objective

The 44th annual convention of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs was held in Shreveport this week with a large representation from the entire state. Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, national president was the guest of honor. Her address on Tuesday telling of her recent visit to Great Britain was the highlight of the meeting. She also held an institute on "Post-War Planning" and closed the meeting with the installation of the new officers.

The federation will have as its objective for the coming year the promotion of the war program and the preparation for living in a post-war world. This to be done by making a study of all post-war and peace plans offered. The board of directors of General Federation has gone on record in favor of international machinery being created for the establishment of a just peace and prevention of further aggression. It is urged that the United States participate therein and that the various post-war plans be carefully studied and considered.

The immediate objectives of the Louisiana federation will be the following:

Contribution of one or more wedding gowns for British women in the service Propective bridegrooms in Britain want brides in white, but due to the shortage of material and the limitation of clothing coupons the girls are compelled to be married in uniform. Here is an opportunity for the club women to do a real war service.

Louisiana club women will join the "Buy a Bomber" honor roll by buying enough bonds to have the name of the Louisiana federation on a $300,000 bomber.

Cooperate in the recruitment of WACs.

Continue club nursing scholarships —but go further by assisting in the collegiate nurse training program and the practical nursing program.

Observe children's book week—November 14-20 with this slogan: "Build the Future with Books."

Participate in the legislative council of Louisiana to be held in Baton Rouge later this month.

Since November is being designated Food for Freedom month, the club women will give their whole-hearted support in educating themselves on the need for maximum productive action on food. We are told by the W. F. A. that there is not enough food in total to satisfy all the demands (war and civilian) for food.

Juvenile Delinquency—May each club be thoroughly organized with a committee to combat juvenile delinquency. This is a challenge to women of helping to fight crime. Mr. J. Edgar Hoover has said that women's clubs can do a great deal at this time along crime prevention lines.

With these definite objectives and the broader program to follow, the women of the Louisiana Federated clubs will not have to seek other channels through which to carry on the most needed program of the war effort.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD MUSICIAN

Judymac Hunnicut, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hunnicut of this city, is delighting audiences with her rare gift of music. She is regarded in music circles as an infant prodigy.

Four-Year-Old Girl Accomplished Musician

A four-year-old girl, Judymac Hunnicutt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hunnicutt of this city, is regarded by Monroe musicians to be an infant prodigy—a child who perhaps is destined to become one of the world's greatest artists. During her brief span of years she has acquired a greater knowledge of music than the average person gains in a lifetime of study. A false note in music is instantly recognized by this four-year-old girl who has learned to read music expertly. Although she is too young to attend school and has not yet learned to read she has been taught the music notes by her instructor, Mrs. W. E. Williams, who discovered the remarkable talent of her youthful pupil.

Immature fingers unable to stretch an octave, glide skillfully over the piano keys. A special technique taught by Mrs. Williams enables her pupil to play difficult numbers from Beethoven and Chopin and such well known airs as The Star Spangled Banner and The Marine Hymn. In fact Mrs. Williams experienced little difficulty in teaching this child to play the piano.

Tales of Judymac's talent reached the public from time to time but not until she made a public appearance at the Neville high school auditorium were Monroe musicians convinced that an infant prodigy is in their midst. Members of the Neville high school faculty, Monroe musicians and the pupils en masse awaited with more or less skepticism the appearance of the youthful musician. Many who had come to criticize left the auditorium singing praises.

It seemed almost unbelievable that a four-year-old girl could play numbers which require years of study for the average person to master. She played with assurance, with ease and with perfect technique. She seemed quite oblivious to the fact that a critical audience was listening.

Judymac is without doubt a child of destiny. To few people in this world is given such a talent. What the future holds for this infant prodigy remains on the lap of the gods but there seems little doubt as to her place among the great masters in later years.

One has only to listen to this child's playing to be fully convinced that a future of great promise awaits her.

After the meeting the club enjoyed a short "social hour."

On Wednesday evening, November 3, the Yo-Wo-Ca Business Girls' club met at the "Y" with the president, Mrs. Wilma Otwell, presiding. Feral Wilbanks gave the devotional. Mary Louise Farr, the club delegate to the planning conference in Little Rock gave a report of this conference meeting. Mrs. W. J. Veazey discussed the project pertaining to Red Cross work the club might carry on. The guest speaker for the club was Lieutenant Vivia Locke, WAC recruiting officer in Monroe, who gave an informative talk, interpreting what her corps is doing in this war and what the responsibility of each girl is in the war effort. A guest, Georgia Thompson, was welcomed.

Children's Book Week To Be Observed Here

The theme of Children's Book week this November, "Build the Future With Books," is a theme so worth emphasizing that we need to think of it with every book we put before children.

If children see nothing but comic books, cheap books which are devoid of merit in either writing or illustration, that is what they will like. If they are given books into which writers, artists and juvenile editors have poured the best of their art, then indeed they are building the future with books.

The standard in children's books has never been higher than it is today. Because of the curtailment of paper, publishers have been forced to cut down their yearly output of titles. Thus only Thus only the best is getting into print. The new books coming off press are uniformly high in quality.

The following juvenile titles (which are available at the public library) were all prize and honor books selected at the annual children's spring book festival sponsored by the New York Herald Tribune:

For Older Children: "Stand by—Mark!" Lieutenant Commander Gardiner; "Vast Horizons," Lucas, Mary Seymour; "Here Is Alaska," Stefanson, Evelyn; "Walter Reed: Doctor in Uniform," Wood, L. N.; "Patterson on the Wall," Yates, Elizabeth.

Children 8 to 12: "Spotlight for Danny," Beim, Lorraine and Jerrold; "Mischief in Fez," Hoffman, Eleanor; "Mounted Messenger," Meigs, Cornelia; "Green Wagons," Seidlin and Rypins; "These Happy Golden Years," Wilder, Laura Ingalls.

Picture Books: "Pito's House," Bryan, C. and Madden, M.; "Michael the Colt," Carbutt, Katharine K.; "The Peddler's Clock," Hunt, Mabel Leigh; "Corporal Keeperupper," Milhouse, Katharine; "Five Golden Wrens," Troy, Hugh.

Mrs. Noe Gives Talk Before Garden Club

'My Experimental Station' Is Subject Of Address To Monroe Garden Club

When the Welcome Garden club members met recently in the Knights of Pythias hall they had as their guest speaker Mrs. James A. Noe of the Monroe Garden club.

Mrs. Noe, in characteristic gracious manner, spoke on a most interesting subject, "My Experimental Station," which was a discussion of her own lovely garden. She gave much valuable information regarding the landscaping and the difficulties and successes experienced with various plants.

She said: "We were very fortunate to have gardens in this section which is the most luscious and wonderful growing belt in the United States. Here things grow ten times faster than anywhere else.

"One of the most important things in planning a garden is to have a background of shrubs or hedge, so as to give privacy and luxuriancy to the garden. In this shrubbery border there should be various shades of gray green, yellow green and the blue green. The blue green will especially "pick up" a yard. There should be berried shrubs for the birds and flowering shrubs for various seasons. This makes an attractive background for flowers

"If the yard is large enough dogwood trees add beauty. Such trees as pin oak, sweet gum, pine, should be planted so as to outline their beauty against the sky.

"Should a hedge be desired under trees the best is the privet hedge. For sunny spots an althea hedge is lovely.

"Arborvitae adds beauty to a garden especially if one has them in various shades of green."

Mrs. Noe stressed the value and joy of a patio where many pleasant summer hours can be spent, doing even such homely tasks as shelling peas and darning socks. This is best situated under a tree and the use of bricks is better than stones for the placement of garden furniture. Have a ground covering of Texas fern, ageratum and lantana and as an eye level such plants as crepe myrtle and althea. Don't plant so it obscures a vista of your lovely garden.

Mrs. Noe said: "In planting the front yard one must remember that here we need dignity and the golden tipped arborvitae are lovely as well as other evergreens. At this season the winter grass, too, should be planted to make the yard attractive."

Briefly also are listed some of the things mentioned by Mrs. Noe. For instance, in the small yard one can plant various lilies for spring, phlox, for summer and in the fall the chrysanthemums especially the yellow ones which give more life to a garden and besides a profusion of yellow gives one courage to fight on.

"Borders can be of oxalia, which will even bloom through the ice and can be kept in condition by dusting twice a year with sulphur. The sulphur helps the phlox, too, or anything that has a fungus growth. Or one can have sweet alysum, pansies or ageratum for a border."

"Crepe myrtles are lovely in their various shades and bloom during the heat of summer. There is a new variety, an amethyst, which doesn't grow large but blooms from June till November. These plants need little water and so grow well under trees. Crepe myrtles should be pruned after blooming otherwise they often become an eye sore in winter. In fact, most shrubs should be pruned after they've bloomed.

"Lantana grows well under a tree, too, and of course the lovely japonicas and azaleas which need much care.

"A garden with patches of purple verbena or other lavendar flowers need touches of yellow to give life to the yard. Marigolds are lovely and easy to grow in most any soil, or, if wishing Japanese ligustrum one can train it for any purpose by pruning."

Mrs. Ralph Thompson gave a helpful, timely talk. She said in part: "Late this month the season opens for planting shrubs, trees and roses. Don't wait until planting time to prepare the ground. In the absence of commercial plant foods work quantities of half rotted leaves into the soil under each shrub, tree, or rose plant. Even some unrotted leaves if chopped and mixed with soil will help. So prepare the flower beds.

"Cuttings of hard wood plants and most flowering shrubs can be easily rooted if put in at the end of the month.

"If an early freeze kills the tender growth on the roses, clip off these parts at once but wait until late winter to do the heavy pruning of roses.

"This is the last call for planting spring flowering bulbs except tulips which are planted in December.

"If you want a good native white lily, plant the Creole lily now.

"Watch azaleas and camellias if the month continues dry and give them a little water, so they'll remain healthy. For azaleas use one drop of sulphuric acid to a gallon of water.

"It is time to transplant strawberries. Put in rows 3 feet apart and plants 18 inches apart. Use 6-7-6 fertlizer."

After a brief business session presided over by Mrs. John Lewis, the president, the meeting was adjourned.

Twin Cities P.-T. A. Holds Its Meeting

The Twin Cities P.-T. A., with the president, Mrs. George Varino, presiding, met Thursday at 4 p.m. for its monthly meeting. Minutes were read by Mrs. Gordon Cummings, secretary. Mrs. W. S. Vincent, first vice-president of the state P.-T. A., was introduced. Membership report was given by Mrs. F. C. Bennett.

Mrs. Herman McKenzie, publications chairman of Sherrouse school, announced that 50 P.-T. A. members from her school have subscribed to the P.-T. A. magazine.

Council members voted to wire Governor Jones asking for a special legislative session for the purpose of salary relief for teachers. This action was suggested by E. R. Hester, president of the State Teacher's association.

Mrs. Herman McKenzie was elected council study group chairman. Mrs. J. N. Coon, treasurer, gave the financial report.

Mrs. Chrissie Williams explained the survey of child labor that is to be made and distributed survey blanks.

Attention was called to the Fifth district P.-T. A. meeting slated for the First Baptist church here November 17.

Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, state labor relations representative, was the next speaker and discussed the history of child labor laws. Present laws protect children between the ages of 14 and 18 years. In April 1941, Louisiana was named as one of the states in which age certificates are acceptible as proof of age under the fair labor standards of 1938. Employment and age certificates are issued by parish superintendents of education. Mrs. Armstrong stressed the importance of being informed about child protection and said that contacts between parents and employer, and employer with the superintendents of education, tend to create a feeling of understanding and good will between them and the department of labor.

Enforcement of child labor laws are brought about by inspections. She urged closer cooperation between home, school and child employer.

The Doctor's Daughters

By FAITH BALDWIN

COPYRIGHT, 1943, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER V

Jim Thompson arrived a little early for his appointment with Dr. Hall. He drove up in his battered car, parked it and ascended the steps. He liked this old house, the light shining from its polished windows. He liked Ellen who ushered him in with the information that the Doctor would see him presently and who looked him up and down in a forthright manner. She said, showing him into the beautifully proportioned drawing room, "If you'll wait here, Doctor?"

Someone came in the room and he turned from the contemplation of the Adam mantelpiece . . . and exclaimed in astonishment. Because he remembered her very well, the tall girl with the dark hair and eyes so luminous and unusual in her healthy pallor. . . .

"It can't be," he cried . . . "it can't be Emily Hall!" He seized both her hands and shook them, he even put his arms around her in exuberance . . . "are you any relation . . . ?"

She said, "Just a daughter. Sit down, Jim, it's good seeing you."

A good student nurse, hard working, helpful. When he'd entered the hospital in which she was training he'd felt pretty cocksure. But practice and theory differ. Emily had helped show him that. He'd grown to know and like her. They'd been out together a few times. But of course there'd been that senior nurse. Emily was asking about her now.

"What happened to Sally Newcombe?"

He grinned. He'd gotten over Sally long ago although once he'd thought he'd die of her.

"Believe it or not, she married someone else."

They laughed and then Emily said, soberly:

"I hope you'll like it here . . . I know you'll like working with my father, Jim, he's—one of the best."

"I'm sure I shall. I'm pretty keen . . . but look, it hasn't been settled, and frankly I'm scared."

* * *

She sat down on the long sofa, beckoned him to sit beside her.

"You needn't be. You have all the qualifications he's looking for . . . youth, health, devotion to your job, the sort of ambition that doesn't mean big money or specializing—You see, I remember the talks we used to have, you always said you wanted to be a G. P. in a small town. Naturally when you went with Doctor Elkins I thought you'd changed your mind."

"I hadn't. It was a chance, and I had to have some sort of an income."

Doctor Hall's great voice boomed through the house. He was demanding—"Emily—Ellen—where's that boy . . ."

"That won't be the last time you'll hear that," prophesied Emily. She broke off. "There's Nancy," she said.

But Jim had already seen her, her bright hair glowing against the dark paneling in the hall. She was coming into the room now, she was saying, "Father's calling you, Doctor Thompson."

"My sister," explained Emily—"Nancy—this is Jim."

"So I gathered." She gave him a cool, small hand, looked him up and down. She said, mildly, "He's really very good-looking."

He was, if you like them tall and lean, with a stubborn chin, unruly red hair, and blazing blue eyes. He held her hand and grinned down at her. He was saying, "Thanks, and may I say—"

"You may not," said Emily, "I'll take you in to Dad."

"She's like that," said Nancy. "But there will be lots of time to finish the sentence."

She laughed and turned away.

Following Emily to the wing which housed the doctor's office Jim said, on a deep breath:

"What a gal—she's not in the least like—"

"Go on and say it," said Emily, without rancor, "she's not in the least like me."

He said, "I didn't mean—It's just that you're so different."

"Of course."

"Look, I haven't asked about you—are you married or anything?"

"Not married. I'm on the Visiting Nurse staff here in Cranberry," she said.

"And—Nancy—?"

"Not married either," said Emily soothingly. "And not on any staff. Her time's her own. She's been away for a few years, she just returned home recently. Here's the office."

She opened the door, smiled at her father and Jim walked in. The door closed behind him.

Nancy was waiting for her, and drew her into the small living room, where Millicent was writing letters at an old desk.

"He's cute," she said definitely.

"Any designs?" asked Emily, smiling.

"Not a one. He's more up your alley, Pet. You'd like love in a cottage or over a garage smelling of disinfectant and ether or whatever it is it would smell of," said Nancy. "No, poor young doctors aren't in my line."

"They were in mother's," Emily reminded her.

"That's why," said her sister definitely.

Millicent spoke, not turning. She said:

"Nancy's practical."

"Very," said Emily, laughing.

'Princess O'Rourke' Opens At Paramount On Monday

Olivia de Havilland and Robert Cummings are co-starred in Warner Brothers' romantic comedy, "Princess O'Rourke," a Cinderella story in reverse with the hero loving an "upstairs maid"—only to discover she is a real princess. The film opens Monday for a three-day engagement.

De Havilland, Cummings In Hit Picture

Charles Coburn, Jack Carson, Jane Wyman Also In Star Cast

MOVIEGOERS should have no difficulty in warming up to the new Warner Bros. picture "Princess O'Rouke," which has its premiere at the Paramount theater Monday.

The film starring Olivia de Havilland and Robert Cummings is a storehouse of fun—jam-packed with all the ingredients that make for outstanding entertainment.

The lovely Olivia is cast as Maria, a royal princess in exile. Cooped up in her luxurious suite in a swank New York hotel, she suffers from ennui. Under the constant surveillance of her guardian uncle, the princess doesn't have too much fun until she's sent on a plane trip to California. The plane, however, never reaches the west coast. After only a few hours a heavy fog turns it back to New York harbor.

By this time the beautiful princess is sound asleep, having plied herself with enough sleeping pills to put her out for two days. Lucky for her, young Eddie O'Rourke, the co-pilot, was there to take her under his wing. For Eddie was a good boy, reared right, so he sent the sleeping beauty to his apartment in the care of his friend's wife.

Imagine Maria's surprise when she awakened amidst thoroughly masculine surroundings! And, to complete her mystification, a series of placards hung about the room pleading for a date that afternoon. The princess was intrigued, so she went home with some cock-and-bull story about where she spent the night—then set out to meet Eddie.

To nobody's surprise, of course, Maria and Eddie fall in love. The complications that ensue in Eddie's courtship and his state of prolonged shock when he discovers she is a real princess make for hilarious laughter. But boy gets girl in the end, and everybody, except uncle, is very happy.

"Princess O'Rourke" was directed by Norman Krasna, who also authored the story. Krasna, for many years has been one of Hollywood's top scripters. A strong supporting cast, headed by Charles Coburn, Jack Carson and Jane Wyman, includes Minor Watson, Gladys Cooper, Harry Davenport.

SOUTHERNAIRES TO SING NOVEMBER 16

The Southernaires quartet ranks among the greatest of vocal ensembles heard today on the air or concert stage. Since 1929 when they were first organized, their beautifully blended voices have thrilled great audiences all over the country. They are all true sons of the south, singing melodies of their native soil, covering three centuries of negro music, including African chants, spirituals, slave songs and negro popular songs. They are also able exponents of other kinds of vocal music, presenting classics and ballads as effectively as they do songs of their own race.

Ray Yeates is the lyric tenor; Lowell Peters, second tenor; Jay Stone Toney, baritone; and William Edmonson, bass. Spencer Odom is the accompanist.

The Southernaires will present their program at the Karol auditorium-gym on November 16 at 8 p.m. There will be reservations for white patrons and tickets may be obtained at The Palace.

The management of the Paramount theater is pleased to announce the return engagement on Thursday for a three-day run of "Oklahoma Kid," starring James Cagney and Humphrey Bogart, who added to their popularity in their most recent films "Yankee Doodle Dandy," "Casablanca" and "Action In the North Atlantic."

Mickey Rooney, Tina Thayer and Freddie Bartholomew in a scene from "A Yank at Eton," playing at the midnight show at the Joy theater next Saturday.

Clyse O'Dell, aerial headliner, is one of the featured stars of the Cole Brothers' circus showing here next Friday afternoon and night.

Judy Canova, Ernest Truex and Ruth Donnelly in a scene from Republic's hilarious new comedy, "Sleepy Lagoon." It will be presented at the Capitol Tuesday and Wednesday.

Trevor And Wayne Star In Hit Film

GRIPPING, dynamic and unforgettable, "Dark Command," Republic production opens today at the Capitol theater for a two day run. In the troubled days of the present, it is gratifying to watch a picturization of troubled days in the past, when the innate character and strength of American manhood and womanhood surmounted the greatest obstacles.

"Dark Command" is a faithful adaption of the famous book of the same title by W. R. Burnett. Its leading roles have been capably portrayed by actors and actresses who typify the American tradition.

John Wayne, who became an overnight sensation through his splendid work in "Stagecoach" and later in "Allegheny Uprising," was the ideal choice for the hero of "Dark Command." Rugged, handsome in a sturdy American manner, the former college athlete seems to be a "natural" in all early American and pioneer sagas.

Claire Trevor, lovely, blonde and feminine, plays opposite Wayne in the role of Mary McCloud, aristocratic southern girl who is bewildered by the cruel trend of events that lie in the wake of the Civil War.

Raoul Walsh directed for Republic.

Aerial Aces Feature Of Cole Circus

SHE'S the greatest aerial gymnast is Cyse O'Dell, youthful aerial star of the Cole Brothers Combined Circus, coming to Monroe next Friday for afternoon and night performances at the Plum street circus grounds, for she climaxes her mid-air offering with almost countless one-arm-somersaults, one of the most difficult feats ever accomplished by an aerialist.

Despite her youth and air of school girl naivete, Miss O'Dell presents a thrilling novelty that has as its tour de force, a combination of agility and endurance. Her strength is, of course, phenomenal, but it is her artistry, embodying grace and beauty, that raises her far above the so-called standard aerial displays.

Just a few short years ago, Miss O'Dell was in school in Indianapolis, Indiana. Her people desired that she go east to a conservatory of music. Instead she showed up on the circus lot one day and joined the show as an understudy of a flying act. She had an idea of her own. She knew she could hang by one hand and throw her body almost countless times over shoulder executing the most difficult of all aerial feats—the one-arm somersault. Seasoned performers are unable to do this once, but Miss O'Dell accomplished it over a hundred times.

Within three months after she came to the Cole Brothers Circus, she was a pronounced hit of the program, a star with a maid, a private dressing tent and a stateroom suite on the show train. Yet, she is a slight girl, and her amazing strength and edurance puzzle the show world.

The performances starting at 3 and 8 p. m. open with "The Conquest of Coronado" in which hundreds of people and animals participate. Florence Tennyson, the noted opera star is one of the outstanding highlights in the colorful production.

GEORGIA TECH DOWNS LOUISIANA STATE, 42-7

ENGINEERS SHOW TOO MUCH POWER

Prokop Out-Duels Van Buren; Tiger Star Withdrawn After Injury

ATLANTA, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Georgia Tech, showing power, precision and a devastating lend-lease punch, overwhelmed Louisiana State's civilian football team today, 42-7, before a crowd of 20,000.

The game was a duel between Tech's Eddie Prokop and L. S. U.'s Steve Van Buren, but it lasted only 30 minutes. At the end of that time both were on the sidelines—Prokop because he wasn't needed, Van Buren withdrawn to prevent serious injury after suffering a twisted ankle in a shoestring tackle.

Red headed Van Buren was at once the hero and the "goat" of L. S. U.'s defeat. He scored the Tigers' only touchdown in the second period, culminating a 66-yard drive with a smash through tackle in which he literally ran over three tacklers to score, and then kicked L. S. U.'s extra point.

Yet five of Tech's six touchdowns came on bad breaks and miscues in which Van Buren handled the ball. Tech jumped into the lead in the first period after End Phil Tinsley recovered Van Buren's fumble on L. S. U.'s 36. Prokop ran and passed to the 13 and Fullback Frank Broyles scored.

Van Buren's pass attempt was intercepted by Prokop who raced 54 yards to L. S. U.'s 11. Four plays later Prokop crashed over for the touchdown.

In the second period after Van Buren's score, Van Buren kicked, but Center Bob Cummings piled through to block and it was Tech's ball on the 22. Mickey Logan and Prokop slammed to the six, and Prokop passed to Tinsley for the score.

Later in the same quarter, Martin Wakefield, substitute blocking back, intercepted a Van Buren pass on Tech's 30 and returned it 37 yards to L. S. U.'s 33. Prokop crashed 14 yards to the 11, and Broyles hit the line twice to go over.

Another intercepted pass from Van Buren set up Tech's fifth touchdown at the start of the third period, J. R. Bell, substitute center, spearing the ball in midfield. Broyles faked a pass and streaked 44 yards to within a yard of L. S. U.'s goal, and Ed Scharfswerdt scored.

Tech's reserves scored the final touchdown late in the third period when Tom Carpenter, substitute fullback, dived across for the touchdown.

The lineups:

Louisiana State	Pos.	Georgia Tech
Webb	LE	Tinsley
Hunt	LT	Chambers
Janneck	LG	Steber
Claunch	C	Cummings
Polozola	RG	Hills
Bernhart	RT	Phillips

Score by quarters:

Louisiana State	0	7	0	0—7
Georgia Tech	14	14	14	0—42

Louisiana State scoring—Touchdown: Van Buren; point after touchdown: Van Buren (placement).

Georgia Tech scoring—Touchdowns: Broyles 2, Prokop, Tinsley, Scharfschwerdt (for Broyles), Carpenter (for Broyles). Point after touchdowns: Prokop 4 (placement), Broyles (placement), Ritter (placement).

MORE SHELLS PROMISED TO FIGHT RABID FOX OUTBREAK

McKenzie Aids In Securing Release Of Ammunition For This Area

Additional supplies of shotgun ammunition will be made available to residents of Ouachita parish at once in order to combat the epidemic of rabid foxes, according to information received here last night by Representative Charles McKenzie from Washington, D. C.

Representative McKenzie said more shells had been assured after a conference with Maury Maverick, chief of the government division of the war production board, and other officials of the board. He said orders were telephoned to New Orleans to release a large supply of shells and have them sent to Ruston and other communities in the infested area.

McKenzie declared shells would be distributed by Stauffer Eishleman of New Orleans, large dealers there, and any dealer in the parish who has been unable to secure an adequate amount of ammunition should contact the New Orleans firm immediately.

Action on the appeal for more shells was taken by the board at Washington after numerous complaints, most in the past 36 hours, had been received concerning the mad fox epidemic that has reached an alarming state in Lincoln parish and is also breaking out in other parishes of the state. McKenzie said Sheriff Clyde Frasier of Ruston, State Senator A. K. Goff, Jr., and Constable W. E. Rape of Eros had appealed for aid, as had a number of Ouachita citizens.

Under the allocation program enough shells will be shipped in this area to provide one box of 25 shotgun shells to each resident seeking them to combat foxes. The release of this war-controlled ammunition is for use against predatory animals only.

Along with the McKenzie report came one from Joseph L. McHugh, state conservation commissioner, who said 650,000 shotgun shells have been shipped to Louisiana distributors and more will be released later. He said 500,000 rounds had been dispatched to a New Orleans hardware firm and another 150,000 went to Lake Charles.

McHugh's report said the shells, released by the WPB primarily for exterminating predatory animals, also might be used in killing ducks and other birds which feed on agricultural crops.

The commissioner said he had been assured that shells also would be available to citizens in localities where rabid foxes have attacked persons and killed livestock. McHugh said that, in addition to the rabid fox infestation in Lincoln parish, reports of mad foxes have been received by the state health department from the parishes of Acadia, Avoyelles, East Baton Rouge, Evangeline, Franklin, Morehouse, Iberia, Lafayette, Lafourche, LaSalle, Orleans, Plaquemines, Rapides, St. Charles, St. Landry, St. Martin, St. Mary, St. Tammany, Tangipahoa, Vermilion, Washington, West Carroll and Winn.

Some shells were available at Monroe sporting goods stores the past few days, but, in the main those had already been claimed in advance by farmers who got first choice at shell allotments. Shells claimed by farmers, according to applications they were required to file, are solely for shooting predatory animals and birds.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—It's unusual to turn to a hockey man for an explanation of this season's football attendance, but in the dripping Yale bowl last week, Murray Murdoch, the old "iron man" of the New York Rangers and now Yale jockey coach, made a comment that applies well to football. . . . "It's easy to educate the fans up to better performances," said Murdoch, "but it's hard to educate them down." . . . That day a scant 5,000 spectators turned out for the Yale-Dartmouth game and 2,700 watched Princeton play Brown—and in spite of the teams' records, the games were good. . . . The same afternoon some 150,000 fans saw the Notre Dame-Navy and Army-Penn tussles. . . . Maybe you still could call those four institutions of higher education.

Old Army Game

The West Point statistical department, surveying the list of about 500 cadets who won varsity football letters from 1891 to 1942, points out that two now are generals, two lieutenant generals, 20 major generals, 38 brigadier generals, 98 colonels, 105 lieutenant colonels, 64 majors, 21 captains, 46 first lieutenants and six second lieutenants. . . . Seven have been killed in action, two are missing and three are prisoners of Japan. . . . Only 29 are in civil life.

One Minute Sports Page

Connecticut sports scribes agree that Levi Jackson, 17-year-old Hillhouse High back in New Haven, is better right now than any of Yale's ball toters. . . . Really, it's a little more than faint praise. . . . In last week's Iowa State-Oklahoma game, the Sooners used the huddle and ran 48 plays while the Cyclones called plays the old fashioned way and ran 81—but Oklahoma won, 21-7. . . . Another last word on the Dodger dislikes: Branch Rickey says, "There couldn't be anybody that I could be more unwilling to dispose of than Mickey Owen." . . . Leo Houck, Penn State's boxing coach who lost out in his campaign for Lancaster county commissioner, can blame himself. Every time his Penn State friends would ask for a campaign cigar, Leo would retort: "Nothing doing; those kind of votes go up in smoke."

A Little Learning—

When the Billings (Mont.) High school Broncs entered their dressing room in Butte's High school stadium before a recent game, they examined with considerable interest the plays diagrammed on the blackboard. They had been assigned the room used for Coach Swede Dahlberg's chalk talks. . . . A pair of Butte players sauntered in and invited: "Go ahead and look 'em over, but you won't get much good out of them in an hour. We haven't learned them in two years." . . . An hour later the score was Billings 8, Butte 6.

Lieutenant Jimmy O'Brien, coach of the Kearns (Utah) army air base team, has to be careful about giving "fight" talks when Staff Sergeant Joe Gallant is around. . . . Gallant, former Boston U. halfback, has seen combat duty in the south Pacific besides playing football for the 35th infantry and Honolulu Bears in Hawaii. . . . Lieutenant Frank Kimbrough, pilot of the North Carolina pre-flight Cloudbusters, is moaning because seven of his regulars completed their training just before today's Wake Forest game. But he still has Cadet Cecil Hare, the ex-Washington Redskin. . . . Last spring Ken Alyta of the Waterbury, Conn., Republican picked the Kentucky Derby finish 1-2-3-4 without seeing the gee-gees. Now Private Alyta has been sent to Fort Knox, Ky., and if he stays there long enough he'll likely get a chance to see 'em.

SELMAN TO PLAY SPARTANS TODAY

Cyclones Meet Livingston '11' On Bolton High Field At Alexandria

In pursuit of its third consecutive victory, the Selman field football team is all set for its battle with the 3rd Army Spartans of Camp Livingston at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon on the Bolton High school gridiron in Alexandria, La.

Today's tilt will be a return battle between the two teams, the Selman Cyclones eking out a 12-to-6 victory over the Spartans at Neville stadium here two weeks ago. This initial contest was a bitterly waged joust throughout, and with both elevens having shown steady improvement since then the return tilt should be even closer and more interesting.

A full squad of Cyclones departed from Selman field for Alexandria late yesterday afternoon. Only one man will be definitely lost through injuries for today's struggle, that being Guard Ed Schumacher who has been out of action for two weeks now with a severe charley horse. Two or three others, including Jimmy Harris, starting quarterback; Ralph Whitman, tackle, and Hank Agusiewicz, guard, will be slowed down due to minor injuries. Harris is still a doubtful starter but will open at the signal calling post if his bad knee appears to be in good enough shape to stand the gaff. Agusiewicz is also slated to be in the lineup that trots out on the field for the opening kickoff but Whitman will be held out for reserve duty. The big ex-L. S. U. linesman is still expected to see plenty of action.

Stocked with some experienced pigskin performers, the Spartans have a well-balanced ball club that will be plenty capable of unsetting the Cyclones. Stan Stovall, a smoothrunning hipper-dipper back, is the sparkplug of the offensive and provided the Selman eleven with some mighty uncomfortable moments with his triple threat performance in the initial tilt here. Sam Bornhauser, Renzal, a former Marquette back, Ray Ingels and Oldaker are other ball carrying threats who will have to be guarded closely by the Cyclones, with Renzal being particularly formidable with his line bucks.

A heavy forward wall in van of these elusive backs is lead by the stellar play of Don Drake, 205, ex-Dartmouth college linesman; Joe Davis, 200, of Missouri; Jack Helfrich, Pennsylvania, a 195-pound center that didn't play in the battle here, Ed Fargo, 210, and Lewis Zuger, a 190-pound New York lad.

Coach Clyde Funderburk has announced that he will probably start Alex Tandyrak at left end; Melvin Russell, left tackle; Charles Moore, left guard; Harold Brown, center; Hank Agusiewicz, right guard; Gordon Hansen, right tackle; Bob D'Angelo, right end; Jimmy Harris, quarterback; Bob Swanson, left halfback; Jesse Nichols, right halfback, and Mack Bishop, fullback.

After meeting the Spartans today, the Selman football gladiators will return home to engage Camp Polk's gridiron aggregation at Neville stadium next Sunday.

ON THE TRAIL WITH BILL GEAGAN

(Associated Press Feature Service)

Once again the hunting season is with us. Meaty birds and animals are being felled by the guns of the nimrods. And, unfortunately, as the season rolls on, men, too, will feel the sting of those same guns. Some will be killed. It happens every year.

Nearly all such accidents are due to carelessness. "I didn't know it was loaded," or "I thought he was a deer" no longer are accepted excuses for wounding or killing a fellow hunter.

Extreme care must be exercised in handling firearms. Loaded guns should not be brought into camp or carried in boats or automobiles. And, loaded or unloaded, a gun never should be pointed at any other person. Many a man has been killed by a gun that "wasn't loaded."

The hunter whose nerves are so tense that he blazes away at moving bushes has no right in the woods.

Hunters in the southern states who enjoy that grand sport of spraying pellet patterns at the fast winging mourning dove will be pleased to learn that this fine game bird has shown a substantial increase, and that late season hatching has been particularly successful.

In reporting this encouraging increase in the dove population, Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, director of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife service, announces that the open season in each of the 13 southern states has been lengthened by 12 days.

The amendment to the Migratory Bird Treaty act regulations which was signed by the president and Secretary of the Interior Ickes, changes the opening dates of the mourning dove season in a number of states. The hunting season will be 42 days rather than the previous 30 days.

In Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, and South Carolina, the season will be from December 1 to January 11. The Florida season previously was the month of December and in the other states from November 20 to December 19.

The North Carolina season opens November 25 and closes January 5, rather than December 24. In the south zone of Texas the season opens October 20 and closes November 30. Previous dates were November 20 to December 19.

The finely barred feathers on the sides of the woodduck are excellent for tying fishing flies. . . . The woodduck should be skinned and the skin salted. . . . The feathers then can be plucked as needed. . . . The feathers of the cock pheasant also should be saved by fly fishermen. . . . There are some feathers on the quail, partridge, and woodcock that also can be used in tying flies.

Hot Off The Grid

NORTHWESTERN 41; WISCONSIN 0

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Dexterous Otto Graham, Northwestern's all-purpose handy man, ran, kicked, and passed the Wildcats to a 41-to-0 Big Ten football triumph over a lowly Wisconsin eleven today.

Before a homecoming crowd of 11,000, the Waukegan sharpshooter scored four touchdowns, pitched a pass to a mate for another and kicked three extra points.

The first half six-pointers, all by Graham, were made on the ground, the first from the Wisconsin 16, the second from the 26, and the third from the four. The first stemmed from an intercepted forward pass, while the second and third climaxed drives of 81 to 58 yards respectively.

NORTH CAROLINA 21; SOUTH CAROLINA 6

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 6.—(AP)—A favored North Carolina Tarheel squad met stiffer opposition than had been anticipated in the South Carolina Gamecocks today, but easily cornered a 21-6 Southern conference victory in a game played before 8,000 sun soaked fans.

The Tarheels steam-rollered the Gamecocks with an overpowering rushing game, collecting two touchdowns on quick breaking runs of 32 and 43 yards, and a third from a recovered fumble. The Gamecocks' lone score came on an 80-yard runback of an intercepted pass by Halfback Joe Shaw.

VANDY 12; CARSON NEWMAN 6

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Vanderbilt scored its fourth triumph in its toughest battle of the year today, defeating the Carson Newman college eleven, 12 to 6, before approximately 3,500 spectators.

The Commodores struck swiftly in the last minute and 58 seconds of the second quarter for their two touchdowns, driving 48 yards for the first with Bobby Lawrence, Carlos Izzaguirre and Johnny Goodgame sharing the offensive burden. Goodgame scored from the four-yard line.

WAKE FOREST 20; N. C. PRE-FLIGHT 12

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 6.—(AP)—An alert, power-laden Wake Forest college football team played its best game of the year today and trounced an all-cadet team of the North Carolina naval Pre-flight school, 20-12, before 5,000 spectators, most of whom were aviation cadets.

The Deacons reached their peak in driving to touchdowns in the first, second and final periods. And then they partly smothered a powerful aerial offensive that netted the Pre-flight team a final marker with only 50 seconds remaining.

Nick Sacrinty, a sophomore, sparked the Deacons, tossing one touchdown pass, taking a lateral from Russ Perry for another, and turning in a fine exhibition of running and passing that set up the third touchdown.

The Cloudbusters sidelined their officers, but presented a fine back in Ray Wolff, who played three years at Dartmouth. In the air, the Cloudbusters depended on a trio of fine throwers, Harry Hilliard, Bill Hannigan and Dave Hyden.

RICE 20; ARKANSAS 7

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Striking with lightning-like rapidity, the Rice Owls scored three touchdowns in the third period to defeat the Arkansas Razorbacks, 20 to 7, today and win their first Southwest conference football game.

A crowd of 6,000 saw Bucky Sheffield set up the first Owl touchdown when he punted dead to the Arkansas 15. There was a mix-up on signals, and the ball went sailing back to the Arkansas four-yard line, where he was scooped up by Bob Smith of Rice. Sheffield went over for the touchdown.

GREAT LAKES 12; CAMP GRANT 0

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Great Lakes Bluejackets rolled up their seventh football victory in nine games today as Steve Juzwik scored twice to beat Camp Grant 12-6 before a crowd of 22,000 recruits at Ross field.

Dick Staly pitched his first pass in the second quarter to set up Great Lakes' first touchdown. Ray Jones then looped a 33-yard pass to Juzwik, who clutched the ball on the 50 and zig-zagged the rest of the way to score.

Four minutes later, Jones tore off a 30-yard gain through the line to reach the Camp Grant 10, and from there Juzwik rammed into the end zone. Juzwik and Russ Letlow failed to convert.

NAVY RUNS OVER QUAKERS, 24 TO 7

Half-Pint Hamberg Leads Mates In Second-Half Rally To Beat Penn

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Picking themselves off the floor from last week's Notre Dame disaster, Navy's footballers smeared Pennsylvania's unbeaten record all over the Franklin field landscape today—and half-pint Harold Hamberg was the head man. He sparked the middies to three second half tallies that enabled them to come from behind and practically rush the Quakers out of the ball park under a 24-to-7 thumping.

It was a magnificent comeback for a Navy gridiron fleet that suffered a bad scare in the first half when Bob O'dell, Penn's Iowa ace, galloped 41 yards with an intercepted pass to score the lone Quaker tally and bring the vast sell-out crowd of 71,215 to its feet rocking this concrete horseshoe with its roars. And the howls were even louder a moment later when needle-toe Frank McKernan placekicked the extra point that put the home club in front, 7-6. As the third quarter opened, half-pint Harold took over and set up one touchdown with a 43-yard punt return, scored another and passed for a third. He was aided by Bob Jenkins, Hillis Humes and Vic Finos in the backfield. And on top of that, the Penn operators suddenly came down with a bad case of butterfingers.

This nasty habit made it a sad day for the Red and Blue and their rooters in this first "S. R. O." crowd in Franklin field in 13 years. Altogether, Penn was able to put together only three first downs, against the middies 18, and were held to a net of 24 yards rushing, compared to Navy's 246.

In addition to his second half spree, half-pint Harold had a big hand in the opening touchdown, early in the first quarter, when he heaved a 22-yard pass to A. B. Channell on the Penn one. From there, Finos plunged through the middle for the tally, but missed the extra point.

The lineups:

Navy	Pos.	Penn
Channell	LE	Quillen
Whitmire	LT	Zetty
Brown	LG	Stickel
J. Martin	C	McCloskey
Chase	RG	Barr
Sprinkle	RT	H. Nelson
Johnston	RE	Bubien
W. Nelson	QB	O'dell
Hamberg	LH	Michaels
B. Martin	RH	J. Kane
Hume	FB	Vincent

Score by quarters:

Navy	6	0	6	12—24
Penn	0	7	0	0—7

Navy touchdowns: Finos (sub for Hume) 2; Hamberg, Hume.

PURDUE SQUEEZES OUT 14-7 WIN OVER GOPHERS

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Purdue won its fifth straight game in the Big Ten today, scoring a touchdown in the last 40 seconds to beat Minnesota, 14 to 7, before 43,000 homecoming fans.

The Boilermakers' victory came when it seemed as though the game would end in a 7-7 tie.

A long punt carried the ball to the Minnesota 10. Three line plays took it to the 18, at which point Bill Peterson, Gopher quarterback, fumbled a low pass while trying to punt and Purdue took over at that point.

One line play failed and then Sam Vacanti, Purdue quarterback, shot a pass which Boris Dimancheff, right halfback, grabbed in the end zone for the winning touchdown.

Just a few minutes earlier, Minnesota had missed a chance to score when it got the ball on Purdue's 15 following a partially-blocked punt. Three plays made eight yards, and a fourth down pass was taken in the end zone by Purdue for a touchback.

MANPOWER LOSS FAILS TO HURT DUKE ELEVEN

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Duke's Blue Devils—apparently better than ever after losing 32 navy V-12 members of their No. 1 squad—seemingly couldn't keep from scoring today as they trampled a hapless N. C. State Wolfpack, 75-0, before 6,000 spectators.

The Dukes used every member of the squad except Bo Sacrinity, injured back, in routing the Pack. Third and fourth stringers played most of the game.

Bob Gantt kicked nine extra points in 10 tries, to run his total for the season to 31 out of 35 attempts.

Duke scored at least twice in every period. The Blue Devils chalked up two touchdowns in the first period, four in the second, three in the third and added a pair in the final quarter. The closing whistle blew just after Gantt kicked the extra point after the last touchdown.

SOUTHERN CAL IS UPSET BY NAVAL TRAINING ELEVEN

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 6.—(AP)—A San Diego naval training station eleven sprung one of the season's big football upsets today by whipping the previously unbeaten, untied, unscored-on Trojans of the University of Southern California, 10 to 7.

Southern California, by sloppy handling, lost several scoring chances, and once, in the fourth quarter failed to tally after registering a first down on the navy's five-yard mark.

The home club, playing before a restricted crowd of 6,000 on the naval reservation, scored shortly after the opening kickoff.

Southpaw Glenn Lee of the navy whipped a long pass into the end zone. Earl Platt jumped higher than two U. S. C. defenders and came down with the ball and a touchdown.

In the second quarter Trojan Quarterback Jim Hardy plowed through center and as he was about to be tackled, tossed a lateral to Center Bill Gray. Gray dashed 40 yards for the tieing touchdown.

The victory margin came in the third period. Ed Nelson, formerly of the University of Illinois, placekicked from the 12.

BOYS TO VOTE ON OFFER OF PREP BOWL CONTEST

ATLANTA, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Coach R. L. (Shorty) Doyal said today he would leave it up to members of his unbeaten Boys' High school football squad whether they accepted an invitation to play the Meridian, Miss., high school team in the annual Blue and Gray bowl game at Montgomery, Ala., Christmas day.

The Purple Hurricane team kept its slate clean by defeating hitherto unbeaten Tech High school of Atlanta, 6-0, last night.

Doyal said the board of education must also approve the bowl tilt before Boys' High could accept the invitation tendered after the game last night by Sam Adams, Montgomery sports editor.

SOUTHWESTERN IN TIE WITH AGGIES

Unbeaten Elevens Battle To 20-20 Draw In Driving Rain At Memphis

MEMPHIS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Southwestern Louisiana institute and Arkansas A. and M. swapped sledge hammer blows for two hours in driving rain here today and knocked each other from the ranks of perfect teams by wrangling to a bruising 20-20 draw.

Three thousand drenched customers saw the contest evolve into an individual battle between Alvin Dark, Southwestern's brilliant triple-threat transfer from L. S. U., and Charley Steed, a pile-driving fullback inherited by the Aggies from Arkansas Tech.

Dark's rifle pitching arm and fancy free ankling got Southwestern off to a 13-0 lead with a touchdown in the first period and another early in the second. But the Aggies recoiled to score a touchdown just before intermission on a 35-yard drive.

The Aggies took the wraps off their wheelhorse, Charley Steed, in the second half and marched the first kickoff 75 yards to the tying touchdown. Runs of 21 and 16 yards by Steed climaxed the land push.

Southwestern forged ahead early in the fourth when Jim Loflin, a stout guard from L. S. U., blocked an A. and M. fourth-down kick on the 7-yard line, and Bob Pillow, the big Mississippi State transfer, bulled over on the next play.

But A. and M. pounced on a similar break about midway the period and capitalized. Haliday, a Southern Methodist university boy who played a spectacular all-around game, recovered Dark's fumble on the Southwestern 20, and this time the Aggies were off to the races. Power plunges by Steed and Wayne Marshall, a University of Arkansas transfer, pushed across in five tries, Steed scoring, and Marshall converted the vital point to knot the score.

NOTRE DAME DEFEATS ARMY ELEVEN, 26 TO 0

IRISH CARRY ON MINUS BERTELLI

Lujack Ably Fills Passing Star's Shoes In Win Over Cadets

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Almost every time you looked up in the fourth period of today's Army-Notre Dame football game a guy wearing a green shirt was playing hide and seek behind the cadet goal posts in full view of 76,000 spectators.

It was in the final chapter, after a rugged first half battle that the Irish ran off and hid from the cadets, scoring two touchdowns as they clearly demonstrated their superiority with a 26-0 victory over the Army.

In the first half Notre Dame built up a 6-to-0 advantage but after the rest the South Benders marched with relative ease to their seventh straight win of the season.

The defeat was the first of the year for the cadets but extended their losing streak in this series to 13 years without a victory and they now have been shut out in five of the last six games.

It didn't take Johnny Lujack, who inherited the Notre Dame quarterbacking job when Angelo Bertelli was transferred to the Parris Island marine camp, but a few minutes to discover that the cadets' pass defense was a one-man affair.

He rifled a 30-yarder to John Yonakor which that towering end caught along in the end zone for the first touchdown early in the opening period and completed a trio of tosses before the cadets discovered it still was legal to bat them down.

The next Irish marker also came through the air with Lujack demonstrating that Bertelli's passing won't be missed greatly. This time he reached Yonakor again from the six-yard line after Tackle Jim White had set up the play by stealing the ball from Army's Glenn Davis on the eight-yard line two plays before.

Davis who was the hero of the Army forces early in the season, appeared doomed to be the game's goat until the Irish point-deluge in the fourth.

Prior to that he had twice ended cadet marches by fumbling deep in enemy territory in addition to letting White swipe the ball for the second marker.

But after the fourth session got under way it was apparent to everyone that his mistakes were of little consequence. Notre Dame started a land march on its own 26 and hurried along the ground to touchdown land 74 yards away with Fred Earley doing the actual scoring. A few minutes later Lujack was back in the lineup and duplicated the feat.

The lineups:

Notre Dame	Pos.	Army
Limont	LE	Mackinnon
White	LT	Merritt
Filley	LG	Murphy
Coleman	C	Myslinski
Perko	RG	McCorkle
Czarobski	RT	Stanowicz
Yonakor	RE	Hennessy
Lujack	QB	Lombardo
Miller	LH	Anderson
Kelly	RH	Maxon
Mello	FB	Davis

Score by quarters:

Notre Dame	6	0	7	13—26
Army	0	0	0	0—0

Notre Dame scoring: Touchdowns—Yonakor 2, Lujack, Earley (sub for Lujack). Points after touchdown—Earley (sub for Lupack 2), placements.

Army substitutions: Ends—Pitzer, Rafalko. Tackles—Hayes, Halligan. guards—Pearce, Green, Sampson. Center—St. Onge. Backs—Dobbs, Kenna, Minor, Hall, Trokell, Woods, Daniel.

VIRGINIA 39; MARYLAND 0

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The University of Virginia crossed the goal line in every period here today to defeat the University of Maryland, 39-0, in the 20th game of a 45-year-old series before a crowd of 4,000.

The Cavaliers received the kickoff and drove down the field for their first score and dominated the play from there on except for brief intervals. Maryland threatened seriously only once when a penalty for pass interception gave the Terps a first down on the Cavaliers' eight-yard line. The Virginians stiffened and allowed three yards in four plays.

The Virginians rolled up 12 first downs to Maryland's eight which included two on penalties. The Cavaliers gained 96 yards rushing to the Terps 14 and their aerial attacks resulted in 10 completed passes in 15 attempts for a total of 148 yards. The Old Liners completed four in 11 tries for 81 yards.

SEMI-FINALS STAGE REACHED IN ALL-POST GOLF TOURNEY

Private R. C. Manganella and Cadet A. G. Smith took their place in the semi-finals round of the championship flight in the all-post open golf tournament currently being conducted on the Municipal links in Monroe and are now ready to battle it out for a finals berth along with Cadet J. P. Gantz and Sgt. Fred Welch.

The winner of this championship flight will be crowned post champion and presented a large and handsome engraved gold cup as a trophy. Manganella reached his present position by defeating Lt. W. A. Marr while Smith advanced as the result of a default by Lt. R. S. Young.

Pairings for the semi-finals in the championship flight will pit Welch against Gantz and Smith against Manganella. These matches will be played over the Municipal links this week-end or before.

Meanwhile, the battle for prizes in the other flights of the tourney waged merrily and play here has also advanced into the semi-finals. Only three first round matches have yet to be played, these being the tilt between Lt. H. W. Cann, Jr., and Lt. R. Procter in the third flight and two battles in the fourth flight between Capt. R. Loughry and Sgt. J. Cherkes and between Cadet M. R. Schow and Lt. E. R. Fird. If these three matches are not completed this week-end they will be defaulted and all six contestants will be eliminated.

In the first flight, Lt. M. D. Marke was awarded a default by Pvt. Larry Coy and earned the right to meet Maj. A. M. Culpepper, who had previously bested Cadet D. P. Higgins, 5 to 4, to gain his berth, in the upper bracket semi-finals. In the lower bracket of this flight, Lt. A. C. Futch, Jr., defeated Lt. C. W. Macy, 3 to 2, while Staff Sergeant J. Emmot topped Cadet R. Delevan, 6 and 5, to advance to the semi-finals where Futch and Emmot clash.

The semi-finals of the second flight will find Capt. Obdyke and Lt. J. D. Palmer paired against each other in the upper bracket and Cadet W. A. Weill meeting Lt. C. R. Widdicombe. Captain Obdyke reached this round by beating Lt. G. B. Weller, 4 and 3, while Lt. Palmer defeated Capt. Goree, 2 and 1, to advance. Cadet Weill moved another notch in the tourney by beating Lt. R. H. Lawrence and Lt. Widdicombe ousted Lt. B. E. Wilson, 2 and 1, in the first round.

By virtue of first round victories, Pvt. M. M. Robinson, Lt. B. H. Roberts and Lt. H. E. Westcott have battled their way into the semi-finals of the third flight. Robinson topped Lt. R. E. Mass; Roberts bested Lt. J. A. Dallen and Westcott defeated Pvt. R. O. Barrow. Roberts and Westcott will hook-up in the second round of this flight.

Slated to meet each other in the second round of the fourth flight in the lower bracket, Lt. R. W. English and Pvt. J. L. Green successfully waded through their first round opponents. English ousted Capt. E. J. Moress, 5 and 4, while Green defeated Capt. J. A. Cadrawalle, 7 to 6.

Lieutenant L. L. Reinsmith has gotten the jump on the rest of the tourney competitors and has already advanced to the finals of the fifth flight. Reinsmith defeated Cadet G. H. Geisi, 7-up, in his semi-finals match and now awaits the outcome of the match between Lt. W. Stoops and Sgt. E. R. Fant to determine his foe in the titular round of this flight.

Consolation matches will be held in each flight and winners of the consolation rounds will be presented prizes as well as the champion of each flight.

CUMMINS IS NOW EM NET CHAMPION

329th Tennis Player Beats Crotwell In Finals For Title

During the past week the Enlisted Men's Tennis tournament came to a close with Jimmy Cummins of the 329th defeating Crotwell of the Hq. and Hq. 3rd Pre-flight squadron in straight sets 6-2, 6-4. The scores offer no indication as to the kind of games the boys played for each point was a battle between the two.

The first set was Cummins' because of his service which kept Crotwell on the defensive the entire game. Cummins would blast the first ball where it belonged then would come to the net to kill the easy shot shoved back by Crotwell. When Cummins didn't get his first serve in, then net play was out for Crotwell showed to a good advantage a forehand drive that kept Cummins close to the base line. The two games that Crotwell took were on his service but that first ball of his wasn't difficult enough to handle for Cummins to prevent him from breaking Crotwell's service.

The second set presented a different story for Crotwell managed by this time to return Cummins' first serve with enough speet to prevent Cummins from coming to the net following his serve. With Crotwell's ability to handle this first serve the game settled down to long volleys with both men preventing the other from leaving the base line. Cummins proved more consistent than Crotwell and possessed a backhand that held more power than the backhand drives of Crotwell. Both men won their own service until the games were tied at 4-each then Cummins poured on the steam and the set match was over.

It is recognized that many good tennis players failed to enter or play in the tournament but, even so, both Cummins, the present champion, and Crotwell the runner-up, showed enough ability to warrant their respective positions at the completion of this first Enlisted Men's Tennis tournament. The initial entry was composed of 20 men who played off their matches at their common convenience.

ILLINOIS 19; IOWA 10

IOWA CITY, Ia., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The statistics showed that Iowa outplayed Illinois in the Hawkeyes' homecoming football game today, but the scoreboard put the Illini out in front, 19 to 10.

The scoring highlight was Eddie McGovern's 95-yard jaunt for a second-period Illini touchdown, after intercepting Howie Larson's pass on his own five.

The Illini scored in the first 11 plays of the game, Greenwood going over from the four to climax a 63-yard march after the kickoff.

730TH KEEPS FLAG FOR MAINTENANCE

Congleton Outfit Scores For Second Time In Row With 99.1

For the second straight month, Maj. Boyd E. Congleton's 730th Navigation Training squadron held onto the maintenance flag at Selman field by scoring a 99.1 per cent for planes in commission during October, Captain Joseph A. Foss, maintenance and engineering officer for the post, said this week.

Apparently trying to start a little monopoly all their own on the flag the 730th became the only line squadron on the field, other than the 557th, to keep the flag more than one month. The 557th, under Maj. Howard Tornes, has held a virtual monopoly on the flag since its first presentation in May, having won the award every time but three, counting this presentation. The 666th took it away from the 557th in June, but the Tornes outfit bounced back the next month and held onto the flag until October, when it was taken over by the 730th. This month, the 730th has won it again, and the 557th settled down to second place with 98.7 per cent. Third place went to the 96th, with 93.9, and fourth to the 666th with 91.5 per cent. The only other line squadron on the field participating in the contest for October was the 729th, which, while scoring a high 98.9 per cent, was not included in the contest because of an exceptionally low number of aircraft for the month assigned to it. Likewise, the Sub-Depot was not counted.

While no specific numbers of aircraft assigned to any squadron may be given out, it was stated that the two highest-scoring squadrons actually had more aircraft to look after than any of the other squadrons.

The maintenance flag, which was bought by the post exchange and given line officials for presentation to the highest-ranking squadron each month, is flown from the winning squadrons engineering area until that squadron is beaten on the monthly reports of flying time. If the winning squadron continues to turn in the highest percentage of planes in commission, it keeps the flag and flies it day and night until some other outfit tops them. So far, then, only three squadrons have won it—the 557th, the 666th, and the 730th.

The banner is a four by eight foot, red, white and blue cloth with the words "Efficiency" and "Maintenance" written across it under giant propellors.

The 730th is commanded by Maj. Boyd E. Congeton. Engineering officer is Lt. Robert R. Green, and line chief is Master Sergeant Talmadge L. Keisler.

MICHIGAN DEFEATS HOOSIERS, 23 TO 6

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Visibly weakened by the loss of big Bill Daley, Michigan's Wolverines still packed enough punch to hammer Indiana's dogged Hoosiers into submission, 23-6, in a Western conference clash witnessed by 20,000 fans here today.

The game civilian team from Bloomington presented an heroic but ineffective performer in heralded Bobby Hoernschemeyer. Although the talented lad with the tricky name tossed to End Pete Pihos for Indiana's only touchdown, he completed only four of 16 passes and had four intercepted, one for a touchdown.

Elroy Hirsch, who missed the entire second half because of injury, scored Michigan's first touchdown, bucking across from the two-yard line to cap a 67-yard Wolverine march in the opening period.

Hirsch, whose tally was his 11th of the season, passed to Michigan's second touchdown on a drive launched from mid-field after a 13-yard punt by Hoernschemeyer in the second period. He lined a long pass from Indiana's 43 to his former Wisconsin teammate halfback, Wally Dreyer, who grabbed the ball behind the Hoosier secondary on the 15 and romped over for a touchdown.

The Hoosiers, who could advance no further than Michigan's 33 in the first half, scored mid-way of the third period when Frank Hoppe, one of eight starting Hoosier freshmen, intercepted a lateral on Michigan's 47 and raced to the Wolverine seven. Two plays lost a yard, and Hoernschemeyer tossed a touchdown pass to Pihos. Captain John Tavener's point try missed.

Michigan's only third period score was on Hoernschemeyer's safety, but on the first play of the fourth period Rudy Smeja intercepted a Hoernschemeyer pass on Indiana's 38 and behind a phalanx of blockers galloped for a touchdown.

TEXAS A. AND M. 22; S. M. U. 0

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Texas A. and M. remained among the nation's unbeaten teams today by hammering the undermanned Southern Methodist Mustangs into a 22-0 defeat before 7,000 spectators.

Manpower told the story, although the Aggies broke the Methodists' resistance with Stanley Turner's brilliant punting and a blocked kick that led to a touchdown.

Near the end of the second period Turner placed a lazy 61-yard punt on the Mustangs' one-foot line. Lloyd Parker dropped back to kick but Marion Settegast tackled him for a safety.

Midway in the third period Jim Hallmark circled right end to score. Turner added the point.

Using the ancient Statue-of-Liberty routine, A. and M. played from the S. M. U. 40 as Earl Beesley faked a pass and Jesse Burditt took the ball to race around right end for the score. Charles Shira converted.

A. and M. then scored its other touchdown in a 60-yard drive as Burditt swung around right end.

MAT CARD SLATED THURSDAY NIGHT

Kallio Changes Weekly Date; Steele And Szasz Will Top Program

Promoter Gus Kallio last night announced his weekly wrestling cards would be produced on Thursday nights until further notice. Matches for the past several months have been billed for Wednesday nights, but Promoter Kallio declared last night that better connections could be made with the wrestlers by having them appear here on Thursdays instead.

For the main event on Thursday's brawl, Promoter Kallio is offering a match between Jack "Stinger" Steele, claimant to the world's light heavyweight championship, and Al Szasz, newcomer from St. Louis, Mo.

Szasz, who has never wrestled here, is not entirely a stranger to Monroe fans. The St. Louis grappler appeared here two weeks ago in the role of referee on a championship card between Steele and Herbie "Dutch" Schultz. He should prove a favorite with the fans, and regardless of whether he is a villain or not the customers are sure to go along with him against the arch-villain Steele.

The semi-final event will bring together Fred Carone, the Boston bad boy, and Allen "Sailor" Parker, the Tennessee toughie.

Parker, despite the fact that he was hurt in an automobile accident last Tuesday night and unable to fill a Wednesday date here, will be ready for action again this week, it was reported.

The main event will have a 90-minute time limit, two falls to win, and the curtain-raiser, scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock, will have an hour time limit, also two falls to win.

A. S. T. U. 14; MISSISSIPPI STATE 6

STARKVILLE, Miss., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The army special training unit engineers downed a Mississippi State college student team, 14 to 6, today, capitalizing on long passes from Rocky Moorehouse to Baldy Kiskman.

The victory was sweet revenge for the A. S. T. U. players, who were downed, 23 to 12, by the students a week ago.

The Moorehouse-to-Kiskman throws were good for 31 and 33 yards in the first quarter of the game. In the third quarter Art Hulme intercepted a student pass and ran 57 yards for the second A. S. T. U. marker.

The students also made their score on passes with Roy Barnes doing the throwing and Mutt Floyd and Ed Blake catching.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Texas Tech Red Raiders decisively whipped draft-depleted Texas Christian Horned Frogs, 40-20, in a wild football game before 3,000 spectators today.

The Raiders scored four touchdowns in the final period.

Off to an early first-period, the Raiders scored two touchdowns, one in a brilliant 64-yard dash by fleet Robert Brewer, the other accomplished when Freddie Brown passed to End Hubert Bechtol on a fourth down. In the second half the Horned Frogs exhibited some brilliant passing and running by Jim Lucas and appeared on the way to victory. At the end of the third period they led, 20 to 12.

NAZI PRISONERS' MORALE IS HIGH

Those In Camp In Colorado Are Enjoying Activities

CAMP CARSON, Colo., Nov. 6.—(AP)—German prisoners of war have injected a bit of the fatherland into this internment camp in the foothills of the Rockies, the army disclosed today in announcing details of a morale-building program.

"The prisoners have added a touch of old Germany to the canteens by decorating them to look like beer gardens," said the camp public relations office. "All of the decorations, chairs and tables in the canteen were made by the prisoners in the woodcraft shop."

The camp, situated near Colorado springs, is divided into three compounds with a canteen for each. Also playing a part in the program are a wide variety of activities—indoor and outdoor sports, woodworking shop, a theater, school classes in subjects ranging from grade school to college and a camp newspaper, "Die Pw Volke," which means: "The prisoners-of-war."

"Morale of prisoners of war in an internment camp means the difference between a troublesome and a smooth-running camp," said the army. "Prisoners with high morale make it possible to run a camp with the least amount of personnel, thereby being an aid to our ever-increasing manpower shortage problem."

The public relations office said an "unbelievably high" morale existed at the camp, which is commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Eugene N. Frakes. Lieutenant V. J. Hines of New Haven, Conn., the chaplain, was described as "one of the most important men in the internment camp as far as morale is concerned."

"The chaplain was in Munich at the time of Adolf Hitler's 'blood purge.' He spent three years in Germany and is very familiar with their habits, traditions and tongue," said the army's release.

"The chaplain states only two per cent of the prisoners confess that they have no belief in God. Four men who were studying to become Catholic priests and were drafted into the German army, and now finishing their studies."

Stage plays written and produced by the prisoners were presented throughout the summer in a theater improvised from an empty barracks.

WICK IN NEW PLEA FOR MOTOR CORPS VOLUNTEERS

Need for more women drivers to enlist in the Red Cross Motor corps was expressed this week by James J. Wick, field director here.

"We have 18 members now with five cars in service, but that is not enough," he said. "This service is open to wives of military personnel and civilians as well. The more volunteers, the more cars can be used."

Women who register for the corps will be given driving instructions and put through a test here under competent instructors. Interested women should call local Red Cross headquarters at 200 S. Grand, telephone 6780, or call this field at extension 497. Corporal Helen Jones, in charge of the dispatching office, will answer all queries.

FINNS WANT VOICE IN NEGOTIATIONS

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Finland is ready to sign a peace or an armistice with Russia if allowed a voice in the negotiations but will "never capitulate unconditionally," a Finnish spokesman said today as dispatches from Helsinki indicated that troubled Scandinavian capital might present its problem of getting out of the war before the tri-power advisory commission set up at the Moscow conference.

(Marshal Joseph Stalin in Moscow said Finland and other vassals of Germany "are discouraged by Germany's military defeat and now finally have lost faith in any outcome of the war favorable for them and are anxious to find a way out of the bog into which Hitler dragged them.")

What definite steps Finland will take to end the war with Russia may be decided the first of next week when G. A. Gripenberg, Finnish minister to Sweden, and Toivo M. Kivimaki, minister to Berlin, report personally to President Risto Ryti.

Dr. Juhu Paasikivi, Finnish diplomat and former ambassador to Moscow, was persistently reported preparing yesterday to go to Moscow to negotiate a peace, although the report brought a denial from the foreign office.

DAVIS MAKES THREE CAMPAIGN SPEECHES

LAFAYETTE, La., Nov. 6.—(AP)—James H. Davis, Shreveport, candidate for governor, said in campaign speeches today that Louisiana's rich southwestern area would play an important part in the state's future progress. He spoke at Carencro, Kaplan and Abbeville.

"It is the immediate concern of every man, woman and child in our state," Davis said, "to give their all in winning the war, and to winning and securing the peace. To do this all of us must join hands in a common purpose. We must merge the activities of the people in this great southwestern section with the efforts of those in the northern section and the other sections of the state."

The candidate said that he was running on an independent ticket and urged his listeners to "join me in guaranteeing a free and determining approach to our post-war problems."

RUSSIAN LAUDS MOSCOW PARLEY

Says It Will Contribute To Stable And Universal Peace

(EDITOR'S NOTE: An authoritative Russian estimate of the results of the Moscow three-power conference is given in the following article by one of the leading journalists of the Soviet Union, Yakov Viktorov, foreign affairs specialist for Pravda, organ of the Communist party.)

By Yakov Viktorov
(Foreign News Writer For Pravda. Written for the Associated Press)

MOSCOW, Nov. 6.—Maximum shortening of the war by the joint efforts of the Allied countries, a stable, durable peace and universal security based on the fruitful cooperation of the allied great powers—such is a general formula in which the results of the recently concluded Moscow conference of the foreign secretaries of the United States, United Kingdom and Soviet Union may be summed up.

This general formula describes, as it were, the general trend of the work done. But if we go into it in detail we get an impressive and inspiring picture of a big job well done, embracing a whole gamut of problems from the most urgently vital—namely those covering prosecution of the war—to long-term problems of post-war cooperation based on a practical solution of questions arising in the course of the war.

The agenda of the conference, which included all questions submitted by the governments represented, was dictated by realities. Naturally, the activities of the conference were organically connected with the situations which have arisen in the course of the war.

The brilliant victories of the Red army, which has forced the Dnieper, bottled up the Hitlerite bandits in the Crimea and is driving the Germans westward; the successful operations of the Allies in the land, sea and air; the already observable disintegration of the Hitlerite coalition; the growth of anti-Hitler and national liberation movements in occupied countries; and at the same time the incredible piling up of brutal terrorism, bloody atrocities and savage crimes which the Hitlerite ruffians are perpetrating as they retreat before the armies of the liberating powers—these are the factors which make the problem of hastening the termination of the war so urgently essential.

It is no wonder, therefore, that the conference considered shortening the war as its first aim. It is no wonder this question headed the agenda. And the practical decisions adopted undoubtedly will soon make their effects felt.

Post-war problems were widely discussed. The result, as we know, was a declaration by four nations (America, Britain, Russia, China) on universal security. The significance of this declaration lies in the fact that the biggest powers in the world, inspired by a lofty desire to ensure peace and security for all nations and countries, are assuming responsibility for all necessary measures to achieve this aim.

The declaration of the four powers lays the foundation for durable post-war collaboration, with the object of maintaining peace and universal security.

But there are problems arising in the course of the war which call for quick settlement. This necessitates permanent consultation between the allied powers. The conference met this need by setting up a European advisory commission.

Another and very striking instance of the settlement of problems arising in the course of the war is the decision to form an advisory council for Italy and the declaration of a common policy toward Italy.

SAYS CHRISTIE OUT THAT NIGHT

Marigny Defense Raps At Testimony Of Oakes' Friend

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Careful defense timing sent jurors trying Alfred De Marigny for murder into a week-end recess today immediately after an attack on Harold G. Christie's testimony that he slept all night at Sir Harry Oakes' estate the night the fabulously wealthy baronet was hit on the head and left to die in a blazing bedroom.

Still echoing in the Bahamas supreme court chamber as the third week of the trial ended were the words of Captain Edward Sears of the Nassau police, who swore that he saw Christie downtown in a station wagon just before midnight July 7.

Moving swiftly once the accused son-in-law had finished his lengthy denial of the charge against him, defense lawyers brought out a pretty blond to bolster his alibi and a friend to combat one of the points in the crown's case.

Then, with an eye on the clock, Chief Counsel Godfrey Higgs called upon Sears to dispute the story of Christie, who said under oath that he remained overnight in a bedroom near Sir Harry's and found his friend's body when he went to awaken him for breakfast July 8.

"Leaving the police station a few minutes before midnight July 7," said Sears, "as I entered George street from Bay street I saw a station wagon turn on George street.

"As I passed I saw the Honorable H. G. Christie in that station wagon in the front seat nearest me. He was not driving."

Sears conceded that it was raining and that he was driving about 20 miles an hour in the opposite direction, but he replied to a direct question:

"I am satisfied it was the Honorable H. G. Christie."

Forewarned of Sears' statement, Christie had said during his appearance on the witness stand that the police captain would be very much in error if he swore that he saw him outside of Westbourne, the Oakes estate, that night.

MAHONEY URGES OIL FROM COAL

Senator Calls For Prompt Action On $30,000,000 Bill

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, declaring that petroleum sources are steadily dwindling, called today for prompt senate action Tuesday on his $30,000,000 measure to start the manufacture of gasoline from coal.

His bill, which he backs with the slogan "we can't afford to be dependent on foreign oil," heads the list of work in congress next week.

"If the United States is to maintain its leadership in industry and transportation, including the tremendous post-war aviation field, we must have a sure and certain supply of liquid fuel," O'Mahoney told reporters.

As evidence that United States oil fields are beginning to show the effect of years of exploitation, he pointed to a chart which showed a steady decline in newly discovered reserves, and to another which indicated the production per new well was only 259 barrels a day last year compared with 1,077 barrels in 1937.

The O'Mahoney bill would authorize the federal bureau of mines to build one or more demonstration plants on a sizeable scale to prove the practicability of using the hydrogenation process to get gasoline from the nation's coal reserves.

The Wyoming senator estimated that with mass production, the fuel could be made for less than 16 cents a gallon.

With the post-war policy resolution now approved by a thumping majority in the senate, congress still faced a busy week. Some of the items on the work-sheet are:

A meeting of senate and house military committeemen Monday to attempt to adjust differences on legislation designed to place fathers at the bottom of the draft lists.

A vote by the senate judiciary committee on house-approved legislation to prohibit eight southern states from collecting a poll tax as a requirement for voting for United States senators, representatives and presidential electors.

Senate action on an apparently unoposepd resolution to continue Manuel Quezon in office as president of the Philippines pending removal of the Japanese invaders and an opportunity for the Filipinos to choose his successor.

An attempt in the senate appropriations committee to put funds in a deficiency appropriations bill the house denied for the farm security administration.

Senate action Thursday on a bill by Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, to provide compensation for newspapers for war bond advertising.

WITNESS TELLS OF FEAR IN FILMLAND

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Fear moved in on filmland.

For several topflight movie magnates it was no mere shadow on a silver screen; no thriller concocted and solved by their bright scenarists.

For them it was the real thing, haunting, sinister.

It rode into the nation's entertainment capital in the entourage of one William (Willie) Bioff, a self-styled low type of person. Bioff, aide-de-camp at the time to the then president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, George Browne, since has been convicted with his boss of extortion.

Now eight more men are on trial—for conspiracy to extort more than $1,000,000 from the motion picture industry—and Bioff has appeared as a key witness in the case.

The sinister note was revealed during the past week of the trial, with tales of threats to kill, and of the world being too small to accommodate certain people at the same time. There were stories from the witness stand, also, of Bioff's threats to close "every theater in the country."

A government witness, Nicholas Schenck, president of Loew's, Inc., related from the stand that Louis B. Mayer, one of the highest salaried men in the nation, was "terribly scared" when Bioff told him "there is no room for both of us in this world and I will be the one who is here."

"Do you mean Bioff threatened to kill Mr. Mayer?" asked Defense Counsel James D. C. Murray.

"What do you think?" responded Schenck. "He said there was no room for both of them in this world."

MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Selling pressure slackened further in today's stock market but buying was equally lax and the best that could be said of trends was that they were only slightly irregular.

Scattered rails and industrials displayed mild recovery tendencies at the start while aircrafts and other assorted armament issues inclined to back water. Small gains and losses were pretty evenly divided near the close. Dealings were slow throughout although blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares of Commonwealth and Southern, unchanged at 13-16, helped lift the two-hour volume to around 300,000 shares.

Bonds and commodities were narrowly uneven.

In memory of Mrs. J. B. Simmons, deceased November 7, 1942.

I cannot say, and I will not say
That she is dead—She is just away!
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,
She has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since she lingers there,
And you—O you, who the wildest yearn
For the old-time step and the glad return—
Think of her fairing on, as dear
In the love of There as the love of Here;
Think of her still as the same, I say:
She is not dead—she is just away!

GOVERNOR WILL ADDRESS TECH

State's Chief Executive To Deliver Armistice Address

RUSTON, La., Nov. 6.—(Special)—Observance of Armistice day at Louisiana Tech will feature an address by Governor Sam H. Jones in a program in Howard auditorium at 11 a.m. on Thursday, November 11.

Dr. J. O. Van Hook, Tech history professor and commander of McFarland Post No. 2 of the American Legion, has arranged the program, annually sponsored by the Legionnaires.

Following presentation of colors, the national anthem will be played by the navy V-12 band, Dr. Van Hook reported. Next will be the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Invocation will be given by Dr. W. E. B. Lockridge, pastor of the First Baptist church in Ruston, who is chairman of the Americanization committee of the Legion. Dr. Lockridge will present Governor Jones, who several years ago was state commander of the Legion in Louisiana.

A pause (in memoriam) and "Taps" will follow the address. Retiring of the colors will close the program.

Each high school in Lincoln parish has been asked to send its senior class to the memorial services. The public is invited.

18 IS DEADLINE ON ENLISTING

Voluntary Entering In Navy Permitted Up To That Age

Youths of 17 and men between the ages of 38 and 50 1-2 are still eligible for voluntary enlistment in the United States navy, it is announced by Lieutenant Commander Kenneth C. Elliott, officer in charge of navy recruiting in Louisiana.

The young men of 17 must enlist before they have reached their 18th birthday, Commander Elliott warned. After they have become 18 they are governed by the selective service act. Men 38 to 50 1-2 are needed in both naval general service, and in the new ship repair unit.

"All men interested in naval life who are in either of these age brackets, should contact their nearest navy recruiting station as soon as possible," Commander Elliott said. In Louisiana, navy recruiting stations are located in New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Lake Charles, Lafayette, Shreveport, Monroe and Alexandria.

"The navy," Commander Elliott pointed out, "offers many opportunities to both the lad of 17 and the older men between 38 and 50 1-2. To the youth of 17 are open the chances for entering the various navy trade schools where he can learn any one of the more than 50 skilled trades. And for the older man there is the opportunity to improve his knowledge of his trade."

Commander Elliott has issued an invitation to the parents of all 17-year-old lads in Louisiana, "to visit your nearest navy recruiting station and discuss your son's military future with men who know the navy." New navy books are now available and will give the reader a clear picture of navy activity.

BROTHER, SISTER UNITED AGAIN

Sergt. Homer French, Lieut. Evelyn French Meet In Sicily

Sergeant Homer J. French and his sister, Lieutenant Evelyn French, A. N. C., sent their parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. T. French, 711 Jackson street, a kodak picture they caused to be made when they were united for the first time since going overseas in Sicily. They had not met for more than a year.

Both were in North Africa but despite their numerous attempts to contact each other they failed until the meeting in Sicily.

Sergeant French has been in the service for two years and was stationed at Fort Knox and Camp Hood before being sent overseas.

Lieutenant French has been in the army nursing service for nearly two years, having enlisted at Camp Shelby. She has seen front line action in both North Africa and in Sicily.

EXPECTS MANY AT FLOOD MEETING

Holland Looks For Good Attendance From Eleven Parishes

The public hearing before the board for rivers and harbors which will take place Wednesday at 2 o'clock promises to be well attended from all 11 northeast Louisiana parishes in this area which were visited by George Holland, secretary of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday and Thursday last week. Four proposed flood control projects will be under consideration when the national board meets. Holland met two days last week with mayors, police jury presidents, triple A officials, and other interested citizens in 13 Louisiana towns.

A tremendous effort is being made to convince the board of the economic feasibility of the projects which concern the Boeuf river, Big Colewa creek, Tensas river, and Bayou Macon, he said. If these projects are approved by the board and are constructed after the war, the flood control benefits derived from them, as now anticipated, should amount to several million dollars annually to agricultural interests in northeast Louisiana, Holland stated Saturday.

The board, army engineers, and DeWitt Pyburn, director of public works for the state, will be guests of the chamber at lunch Wednesday noon, preceding the hearing, according to Sam Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the board will arrive by train early in the day and will make a tour of the area before the luncheon. A large delegation from the sections involved in the projects is expected to attend, bearing tangible proof and special data to prove the justification, economically, of the flood control projects.

The general public interested in flood control and draining of agricultural land are invited to attend. It has been many years since the entire personnel of the national board for rivers and harbors has visited in Louisiana. This hearing will afford citizens of the section to do a real civic job by attending, President Smith stated.

MONTGOMERY IN RACE FOR JUROR

Vice-President Of Parish Police Jury Seeking Reelection

A. E. Montgomery, vice-president of the Ouachita parish police jury, representing Ward 10, yesterday announced his candidacy for reelection in the January 18 primary. Mr. Montgomery's statement is as follows:

"Although I hope to see personally all the voters of Ward 10, I realize this is going to be a difficult task, and I take this means of soliciting the vote of each of you. I have served as a police juror for my ward for 13 years and believe that my record entitles me to reelection. I am now vice-president of the jury and an active member of many important committees, to which I give considerable part of my time.

"I have lived in this parish for forty-five years and have always taken an active interest in business and civic affairs of the community. I served in the last World War and am a member of the American Legion and the Forty and Eight. I am the owner and active manager of Montgomery Insurance agency, and last year was elected president of the Ouachita Association of Insurance Agents.

"I have at all times voted as a police juror for what I believed to be for the best interests of my ward and parish and, in particular, believe I am entitled to some credit for what I consider two of the most important projects which have lately come before the jury.

"We now have two juvenile officers for the parish, the appointment of which was fostered by the P.-T. A. and League of Women voters. These officers are paid jointly by the city and parish, and it has been my observation that they do a real work in keeping down juvenile delinquency. I took an active part in the passage of the ordinance creating these offices and shall continue to support such projects as this which tend to the moral upbuilding of the community.

"I also took an active part in the fight which finally culminated in the acquisition by Ouachita parish of the grounds on which our airport is now built. This to my mind is one of the most important things in the history of this parish. Without these grounds it is believed that our large airport, which is now one of the largest navigation fields in the United States, would have gone elsewhere. All this was accomplished without cost to the parish because the government has returned our entire expense.

"I am running strictly on my record as a citizen and police juror without political alliance of any kind, city, parish, or state. In view of the above facts I hope that in your mind I am entitled to your vote and support in the coming primary election.

ARCADE NO ROWDY PLACE SAYS ROSS

T. M. Ross, owner and operator of the Arcade at 406 1-2 DeSiard street, emphasizes the fact that this is a clean and well-conducted dance hall, where the latest in musical entertainment is available.

Right now Mae Jean and her All Girl Orchestra is the feature and this attraction has been of such high grade that it has been put on at a large weekly guarantee.

Mr. Ross states that many people confuse this dance hall with places of questionable character. He assures that nothing of this nature is contenanced by him. No arrests have been necessary, persons under the influence of liquor are debarred from admission, and special police are on hand to nip in the bud anything that is undesirable. Fortunately the policy of the place has been so high grade that no arrests have been required.

The dance floor is of the best and Mr. Ross guarantees that as long as he operates the place as owner, it will always be one where no one need to feel ashamed to visit. He admits that before he took over, that the place did not always bear the best reputation. Ever since he took over the management, all this has been changed and he invites the public to attend and to observe the well conducted establishment.

PRIVATE CARRIERS TO HOLD MEETING

A meeting of all private carriers making wholesale or retail deliveries by truck will be held in Monroe Tuesday at 2:30 in the afternoon in the Virginia hotel ballroom. Heading the meeting will be John F. Dawson, district manager of ODT, division of motor transport, for this area.

Purpose of the meeting will be to discuss and explain the various provisions of the restrictions on all wholesale and retail motor truck deliveries recently made effective throughout the nation.

Restrictions include:

1. A prohibition against the retail delivery of packages which weigh 5 pounds or less, or which measures less than 60 inches in length and girth combined.
2. Limitation upon the frequency of wholesale and retail deliveries of certain commodities.
3. A prohibition against Sunday retail deliveries except of ice, milk or cream, and all Sunday wholesale deliveries except of ice.

The meeting will be of particular interest to operators of dairies, laundries, groceries (wholesale and retail), furniture stores, department stores, and to all who deliver their own merchandise by truck to either wholesale or retail customers.

BARDY MITCHELL IS CANDIDATE

Prominent Citizen Asserts He Desires To Work For Public Good

J. Bardy Mitchell, prominent Ouachita parish citizen, last week announced his candidacy for the state legislature as one of two Ouachita parish representatives. Mr. Mitchell is a son of the late W. R. Mitchell, prominent as one of the founders of West Monroe, and is one of six sons. West Monroe history is replete with the achievements and life of the late W. R. Mitchell, who was a prominent banker and who owned and operated large farm interests, being for years one of the leading merchants of Ouachita parish.

Bardy Mitchell is married and father of a son, Johnnie B. Mitchell, Jr. His wife, formerly Miss Gertie Owens, is principal of one of the Ouachita parish schools. The Mitchel's reside in West Monroe. His mother, 86 years old, is living in the old Mitchell family home in Mitchell addition to West Monroe.

Mr. Mitchell has been active in local and state politics and in civic affairs for many years. Popularly known as "Bardy," Mr. Mitchell believes that he can now be of real service to his community and to Ouachita parish. He has been a life long resident of this parish and feels that he is acquainted with the problems of the people, and feels that he is capable of introducing, sponsoring the passing legislation in the state legislature which will be of real benefit to this parish and to the entire state.

"If the legislature of this state will insist that the state be operated upon an efficient and economical basis, and I sincerely believe that it will be possible for us to reduce taxes and operating costs of this state. I am for the people. Their problem, I consider to be my problem, and I am going to visit with every voter in the parish, if possible, and solicit his or her vote and support in the coming primary."

Mr. Mitchell, who has had a full and ative life in Ouahita parish, states that he is proud of his wide acquaintance and large number of personal friends, and that he is busy contacting them in the interest of his candidacy.

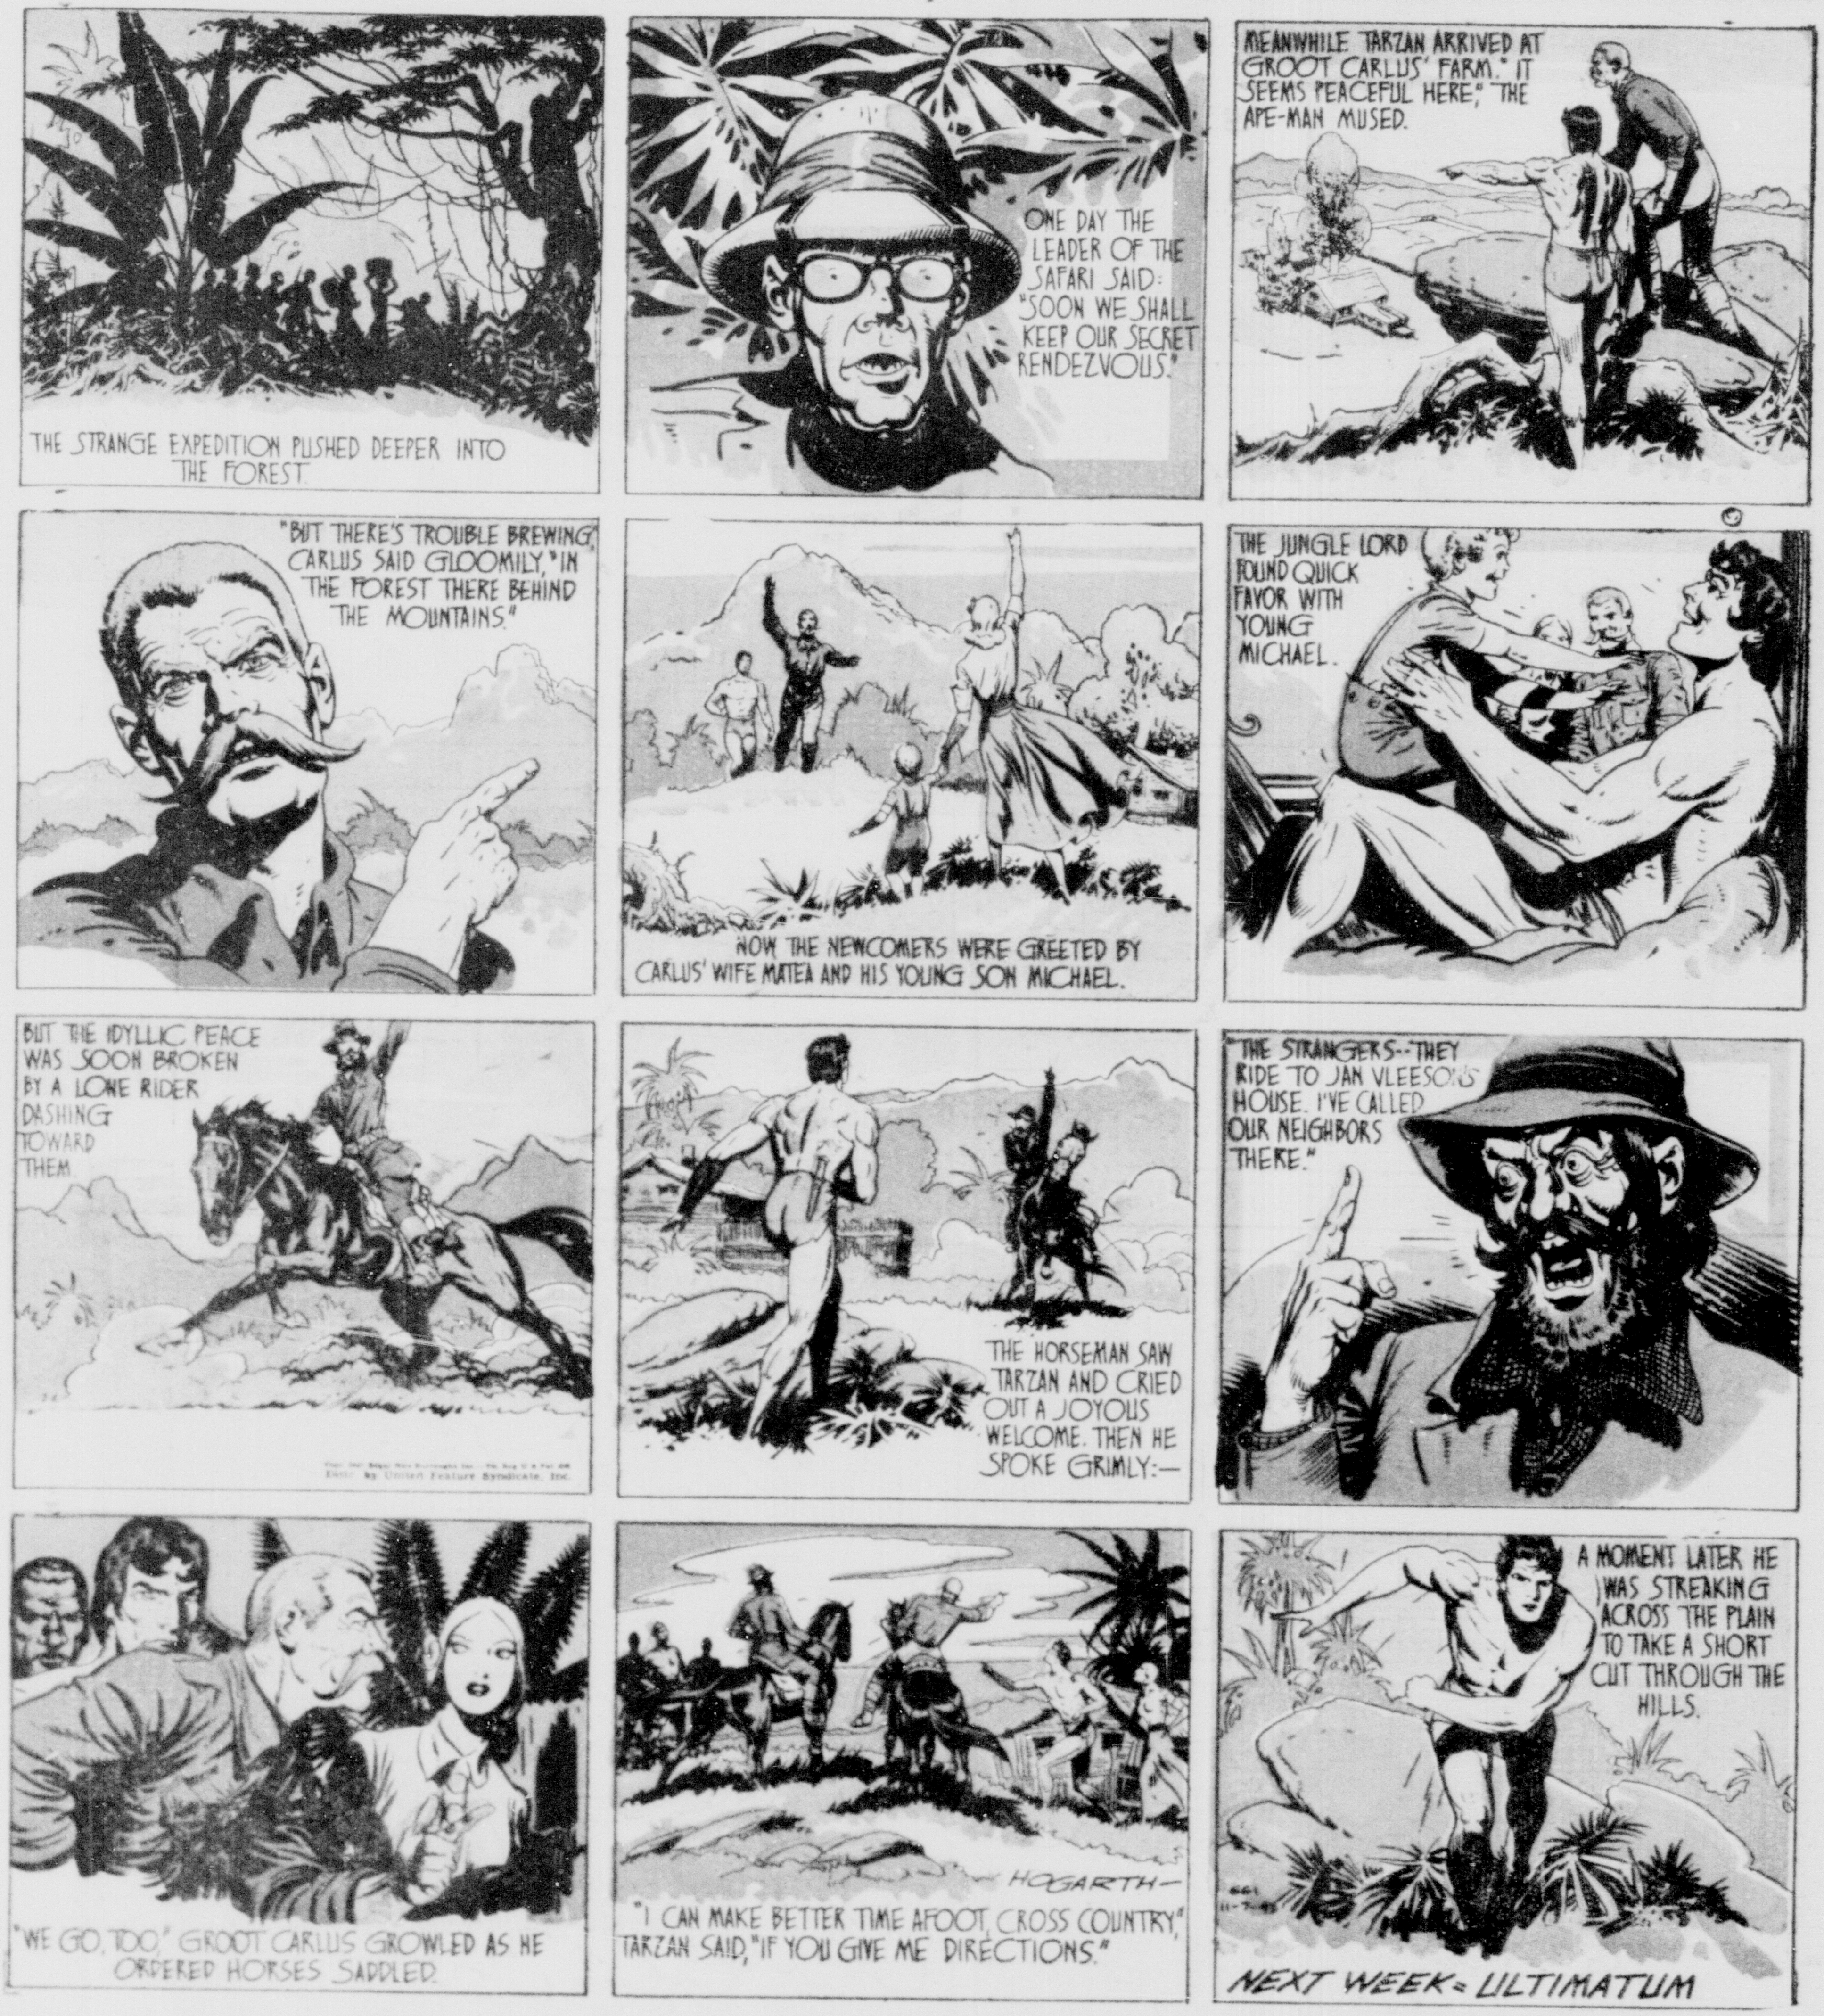
TROUBLE BREWING



THE STRANGE EXPEDITION PUSHED DEEPER INTO THE FOREST.
ONE DAY THE LEADER OF THE SAFARI SAID: "SOON WE SHALL KEEP OUR SECRET RENDEZVOUS."
MEANWHILE TARZAN ARRIVED AT GROOT CARLUS' FARM. "IT SEEMS PEACEFUL HERE," THE APE-MAN MUSED.
"BUT THERE'S TROUBLE BREWING," CARLUS SAID GLOOMILY, "IN THE FOREST THERE BEHIND THE MOUNTAINS."
NOW THE NEWCOMERS WERE GREETED BY CARLUS' WIFE MATEA AND HIS YOUNG SON MICHAEL.
THE JUNGLE LORD FOUND QUICK FAVOR WITH YOUNG MICHAEL.
BUT THE IDYLLIC PEACE WAS SOON BROKEN BY A LONE RIDER DASHING TOWARD THEM.
Copr. 1947 Edgar Rice Burroughs Inc.—Tm. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.
1947 by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
THE HORSEMAN SAW TARZAN AND CRIED OUT A JOYOUS WELCOME. THEN HE SPOKE GRIMLY:—
"THE STRANGERS--THEY RIDE TO JAN VLEESON'S HOUSE. I'VE CALLED OUR NEIGHBORS THERE."
"WE GO, TOO," GROOT CARLUS GROWLED AS HE ORDERED HORSES SADDLED.
HOGARTH—
"I CAN MAKE BETTER TIME AFOOT, CROSS COUNTRY," TARZAN SAID, "IF YOU GIVE ME DIRECTIONS."
A MOMENT LATER HE WAS STREAKING ACROSS THE PLAIN TO TAKE A SHORT CUT THROUGH THE HILLS.
